No. 97.] Marriages—October, November, December, 1872.
Births and Deaths—January, February, March, 1873. [Price 8½*d.*

General Register Office, Somerset House,
30th April 1873.

In the UNITED KINGDOM the births of 285,528 children, and the deaths of 184,823 persons of both sexes, were registered in the three months ending 31st March 1873. The natural increase of population was thus 100,705.

The registered number of persons married in the quarter ending 31st December 1872, was 147,214.

The resident population of the United Kingdom in the middle of 1873 is estimated at 32,131,488; that of England and Wales amounting to 23,356,414, of Scotland to 3,430,923, and of Ireland to 5,344,151. The corrected* death-rate of the quarter was 23·3 per 1000; the birth-rate 37·4; and the marriage-rate in the fourth quarter of the year 1872 was 19·2 per 1000.

The several facts concerning Scotland and Ireland are recorded in the quarterly reports of the Registrars General of those parts of the United Kingdom.

ENGLAND.

This Return comprises the BIRTHS and DEATHS registered by 2195 Registrars in all the districts of England during the quarter ending 31st March 1873; and the MARRIAGES in 13,484 churches or chapels, in 6902 registered places of worship unconnected with the Established Church, and in 626 Superintendent Registrars' Offices, in the three months ending 31st December 1872.

The Returns of marriages, births, and deaths are almost all equally favourable. The marriage-rate has completely recovered from the depression of the year 1869, and through all the quarters of the year 1872 exceeded the averages of previous years; the births of the first ninety days of 1873 greatly exceeded, while the deaths were below the average. The people were unusually healthy, especially in the towns. The subsidence of epidemics, the abundant rain-fall, and the absence of nights of excessively low temperature, contributed, with the increased attention to hygienic measures, to this result; as, through rises of wages, their influence was not overwhelmed, though it was counteracted, by the high prices of the necessaries of life. Meat, bread, potatoes were dear, but their cost bore no proportion to the rise in the cost of coal, which was at a famine price, though the deaths by cold weather were less numerous than might have been expected, for happily Heaven, though severe at times, was less unkind than the divinities that rule the Coal Market.

* In calculating the birth, death, and marriage rates for the United Kingdom, a correction has been made in the Irish Returns—with the authority of the Registrar General of Ireland—for defective registration. This correction is based on the assumption that births, deaths, and marriages bear the same proportion to population in Ireland as in England.

Marriages.

The marriages in the fourth quarter of the year 1872 were more numerous than in any preceding quarter, 120,554 persons having been married in the three months ending 31st December last. The marriage-rate was 20·7 per 1000 persons living, or 0·8 above the mean rate for the fourth quarter in the ten years 1863–72: during those years it was exceeded only once, namely, in the December quarter of 1865. Compared with the average numbers for the corresponding quarter in the three previous years, the marriages in the counties of Monmouth and Durham again showed the greatest increase. In Bedfordshire, Northamptonshire, Cumberland, Nottinghamshire, the East Riding of Yorkshire, and Northumberland the numbers also largely exceeded the average, while Westmorland, Herefordshire, and Devonshire exhibited a considerable decrease. A comparison, however, with the numbers of marriages registered in the corresponding quarter of 1871 is less favourable, as an actual decrease is shown in London and in 16 of the counties, while in seven other counties the numbers are nearly identical with those returned for the previous corresponding quarter. In most of these 23 counties the population is engaged principally in agriculture, but among them are also included the counties of Cornwall, Gloucester, Worcester, Warwick, and Cheshire, which contain several populous mining and manufacturing districts.

Births.

In the first quarter of 1873, 216,367 births were registered, giving an annual birth-rate of 37·6 per 1000, or 1·3 higher than the rate in the previous corresponding quarter, and 0·6 above the mean rate for the March quarter in the ten years 1863–72. The most remarkable increase was shown in the county of Durham, where the births exceeded the average of the three previous corresponding quarters by nearly 20 per cent. Large additions have probably been made to the population of this county during the last year through immigration consequent upon the demand for labour in the coal mines and iron works. The excess over the average was also considerable in the East Riding of Yorkshire, Cumberland, Northumberland, the Extra-Metropolitan part of Middlesex, Buckinghamshire, and Cambridgeshire, but in none of these counties was the percentage of increase equal to half that in Durham. The births fell below the average of the three previous corresponding quarters generally throughout the South-eastern and South-western Divisions, and also in the counties of Hereford, Westmorland, Norfolk, Rutland, Leicester, Lincoln, and in North Wales. In the eighteen large towns furnishing weekly returns the birth-rates averaged 40·0 per 1000. They ranged from 35·2 in Norwich and 35·6 in Nottingham, to 45·8 in Salford and 49·4 in Sunderland. In London the rate was 38·4. In the fifty towns ranking next in population after the eighteen largest the average birth-rate was 38·8. The lowest rates were 26·0 in Bath, 28·7 in Hastings, and 29·6 in Brighton; and the highest 49·0 in Dudley, 49·4 in Wigan, and 49·6 in Gateshead.

Increase of Population.

The excess of births over deaths amounted during the 90 days of the quarter to 83,741 or 930 per day. The number of emigrants of British origin, who sailed from ports in the United Kingdom at which Government Emigration officers are stationed, was 29,486*, of whom 17,269 were of English, 2162 of Scotch, and 10,055 of Irish origin. In the previous corresponding quarter the number of British emigrants was 25,660, comprising 15,060 English, 1942 Scotch, and 8658 Irish. The proportions of English, Scotch, and Irish emigrants last quarter to the respective populations of England, Scotland, and Ireland were as follow: English 739, Scotch 630, and Irish 1881 per million persons. Of the 29,486 emigrants the United States attracted 23,131, British North America 293, the Australian Colonies 4396; the remaining 1666 went to other places.

* This information is obtained from a Return with which the Registrar General is favoured by the Board of Trade. The total number of emigrants was 37,565, of whom 8079 were foreigners. In the numbers here given 612 cases, in which the origin was undistinguished, have been distributed proportionally amongst those in which the origin was stated.

Prices, Pauperism, and the Weather.

The average price of wheat for the three months ending 31st March last was 55*s.* 10*d.* per quarter, differing by only 6*d.* from the average price for the March quarter of 1872, when it was 55*s.* 4*d.* During the last two years of high prices no great fluctuations have occurred in the quarterly average prices of wheat, the highest average having been 59*s.* 9*d.* in the June quarter of 1871, and the lowest 55*s.* 4*d.*, as above stated, in the March quarter of 1872. Potatoes (best Regents) reached the high average price of 207*s.* per ton at the Borough and Spitalfields Markets, against 100*s.* in the quarter ending 31st March 1872, and 87*s.* 6*d.* in the quarter ending 31st March 1871. The price of beef by the carcase at the Metropolitan Meat Market averaged $6\frac{3}{4}$d. per lb., the same as in the previous quarter, and that of mutton $7\frac{5}{8}$d., showing a rise of $\frac{3}{8}$d. per lb.

The effects of cold on death are so striking as to render the supply of coals in this climate a matter of vital importance. It has therefore been deemed right, in consequence of the extraordinary rise, to add the price of coals in the London market to the usual list; and the Registrar General has to thank the Mining Record Office for the most authentic information on the subject, to be found in Table X., where the several prices of five kinds of sea-borne coal are given, inasmuch as it is from these prices that the average price in Table III. is deduced.

The returns of pauperism, when compared with those for the previous corresponding quarter, show a slight increase in the average number of in-door paupers, and a further considerable decline in the average number of out-door paupers relieved on the last day of each week. The average numbers so relieved for each of the last nine quarters will be found in Table III. The proportion of each class of paupers in the first quarter of each of the three years 1871–73 to 1000 of the estimated population was as follows:—

| | In-door. | Out-door. |
|---|---|---|
| Quarter ending 31st March 1871 - | 7·1 | 38·6 |
| " " 1872 - | 6·4 | 33·7 |
| " " 1873 - | 6·4 | 30·1 |

Mr. Glaisher's remarks on the meteorology of the quarter will be found on pp. 65–7.

The warm period which set in on the 9th of last December continued till January 19th. From the 1st to the 19th January the mean daily excess of temperature was 10°. After a few days of average temperature a cold period began on 25th January and continued throughout February, during which the average daily deficiency was 4°. This was followed by a week of warm weather with an average daily excess of $3\frac{1}{2}$°, then by a cold fortnight during which the average daily deficiency was $3\frac{1}{4}$°, and the quarter closed with a week's warm weather in which the daily excess averaged $3\frac{1}{2}$°. The mean temperature for the quarter was 39°·4 or 0°·8 above the average in 102 years. It was 42°·1 for January, 34°·3 for February, and 41°·9 for March. Thus the mean temperatures of January and March were nearly equal, and were respectively 7°·8 and 7°·6 above that of February. The mean temperature of January was 5°·8 above and that of February 4°·3 below the average in 102 years. The mean temperature of March differed but little from the average. A decline of several degrees in temperature from January to February is rare. Except in 1853, the decline this year was greater than any that has occurred during a period of more than 100 years. The rain-fall in the quarter at Greenwich amounted to 5·7 inches, or 0·2 in. above the average of 58 years. There was an excess of 0·6 in. in January and of 0·3 in. in February, and a deficiency of 0·4 in. in March. The mean quantity collected during the quarter between latitudes 50° and 55° was 8·08 inches.

Deaths; and State of the Public Health.

The 132,626 deaths registered during the first three months of this year were less than the number returned in the corresponding period of any year since 1868. The mortality was at the annual rate of 23·0 per 1000 persons estimated to be living against 26·0, 24·7, and 23·5, respectively, in the first quarters of the three years 1870–1–2 ; the rate last quarter was 2·2 per 1000 below the average rate in the corresponding quarter of the ten years 1863–72. The mean temperature of the quarter was 39°·4, which, although somewhat higher than the average for the same period in 102 years, was no less than 4°·1 below the unusually high mean temperature which prevailed during the first three months of 1872. January was remarkably mild, but the temperature during February was unusually low, although there was no continuance of severe frost. The influence of this cold weather upon the mortality may be judged by the death-rate recorded in the 18 large English towns, including London, which are estimated to contain a population of nearly six millions and a half of persons, and for which a weekly return is published. During the five weeks ending 1st February, when the mean temperature at the Royal Observatory, Greenwich, averaged 42°·0, or 5°·0 above the average, the annual death-rate in these 18 towns averaged 21·9 per 1000, while in the last eight weeks of the quarter, when the mean temperature was 38°·1, or 2°·1 below the average, the death-rate was 26·6 per 1000. It is probable that the death-rate in the whole of England and Wales was influenced by the cold weather of February scarcely less than in the 18 towns. The decline in the mortality last quarter cannot be attributed to its higher temperature, but was rather due to the marked decline in the fatality of the principal zymotic diseases which will presently be considered.

In the eleven Registration Divisions the mortality ranged upwards from 18·8 in the South-eastern Division, which contains the principally rural counties of Surrey, Kent, Sussex, Hampshire, and Berkshire ; in the Yorkshire, Northern, and Welsh Divisions the rate was 23·8, and in the North-western Division, including the counties of Lancashire and Cheshire, it was so high as 26·9. In Lancashire the annual death-rate was equal to 27·7 per 1000, while in Cheshire it did not exceed 22·9 ; the excess in the Lancashire death-rate was in great measure due to the fatality from zymotic diseases, and to the high rate of infant mortality.

The Registration Districts and sub-districts, containing all the chief towns of England and Wales, have an estimated population of nearly 13 millions and a half of persons ; among this urban population the annual death-rate was 24·4 per 1000, and 3 per 1000 below the average rate in the ten previous corresponding quarters. In the remaining, or rural population, the death-rate was 21·1 per 1000, and only 1·5 below the average rate in the first quarter of the ten years 1863–72. The urban mortality was one per 1000 below that in the March quarter of 1872, while the rural rate showed a slight increase. The marked improvement in the public health, which is doubtless in progress, appears to be principally confined to the town districts, in which the fatality of zymotic diseases is decreasing. The formation of rural sanitary districts will probably enable the small villages and country parishes to exhibit before long a decline in their death-rate corresponding with the improvement in the health of the towns.

In the 18 large English towns, including London, with a population of six millions and a half, for which weekly returns are published, the average mortality was 24·8 per 1000, or but slightly above the rate in the entire urban population ; the lowest rates in these towns were 18·1 in Portsmouth, 22·1 in Nottingham, and 22·7 in London ; the highest rates were 29·4 in Newcastle-upon-Tyne, 30·8 in Oldham, 31·1 in Salford, and 34·1 in Manchester. The excessive rates in Newcastle and Oldham were caused by the fatality of scarlet fever, while measles and scarlet fever were prevalent in Manchester and Salford. Let us hope that the excellent sanitary intentions of these great centres of manufacturing industry will soon be realized. Every day's delay is dangerous.

Fifty other large towns are estimated to contain a population of rather more than two millions and a half, among whom the death-rate in the first quarter of the year was equal to 24·7 per 1000, which differed but slightly from the rate in the 18 largest towns, and was 0·3 per 1000 above the rate in the entire urban population. Of the 50 towns, Dover 17·6, Yarmouth 19·3, Brighton 19·5, Lincoln 19·5, and Maidstone 19·5, showed rates under 20 per 1000; while the rates exceeding 30 per 1000 were 31·5 in Exeter, 33·5 in Bury, and 35·5 in Preston. The rate from zymotic diseases was excessive in each of these three last-mentioned towns.

The 132,626 deaths in England and Wales included 30,903, or 23·3 per cent. of infants under one year of age ; and 38,305, or 28·9 per cent. of persons aged 60 years and upwards. The deaths of infants under one were lower than in any of the three previous corresponding quarters, notwithstanding the large increase in the number of births since the first quarter of 1870. The deaths of infants under one were equal to 15·8 per cent. of the births registered in the first quarter of 1870, to 14·9 in the same periods of 1871 and 1872, and in the three months ending March last, the proportion further fell to 14·3 per cent. Infant mortality measured in this way averaged 14·2 in the 18 large English towns, and ranged from 10·9 in Portsmouth to 18·9 in Leicester, which town maintains its unenviable notoriety for waste of infant life ; so excessive is this infant mortality in Leicester, that it seems to demand a special inquiry into its cause. In the whole county of Lancashire the deaths of infants under one year were equal to 16·7 per cent. of the births registered, which appears to suggest some intimate connection between the employment of women in factories and infant mortality. In the agricultural counties of Hereford, Wilts, and Devon, this percentage of deaths under one year to births registered was only 9·5, 12·0, and 12·1 respectively. The deaths of persons aged 60 years and upwards showed generally last quarter a large increase upon the numbers returned in the corresponding quarters of 1871 and 1872 ; a result probably caused by the cold weather of February following a January of remarkably high temperature. The annual death-rate last quarter among persons estimated to be living in England and Wales, and aged 60 years and upwards, was equal to 89·0 per 1000, against 91·5, 84·5, and 76·3 respectively, in the first quarters of the three years 1870–1–2. The proportion of deaths at 60 years and upwards to total deaths was 28·9 per cent. in all England, while in the 18 large English towns it was 24·6, and ranged from 16·8 and 17·3 in Oldham and Manchester to 33·0 and 33·5 per cent. respectively in Nottingham and Norwich.

One of the most remarkable and satisfactory features in the present return is the decline in the fatality of the principal zymotic diseases. In England and Wales, of the 132,626 deaths from all causes, 1084 were referred to small-pox, 1204 to measles, 2644 to scarlet fever, 579 to diphtheria, 2935 to whooping-cough, 3402 to different forms of fever, and 1854 to diarrhœa : in all, 13,702 deaths resulted from these seven zymotic diseases against 20,091, 21,551, and 24,794 in the corresponding quarters of the three years 1870–1–2. The annual death-rate from these seven diseases was equal to 2·4 per 1000, against 3·6, 3·8, and 4·3 in the three previous corresponding quarters. The recent small-pox epidemic somewhat impairs the value of these rates as a means for measuring the recent decline in the fatality from zymotic diseases ; but excluding small-pox, the annual rate from the six other principal zymotic diseases in the first quarter of the four years 1870–3 has been successively 3·5, 3·0, 3·0, and 2·2 per 1000.

In the 18 large English towns the annual death-rate from the seven zymotic diseases averaged 2·6 per 1000, exceeding by 0·2 the rate in the whole of England and Wales ; this zymotic rate was lowest 0·5, 1·8, and 1·9 in Nottingham, Bristol, and London, and ranged upwards to 5·4, 5·5, and 5·8 respectively in Salford, Manchester, and Newcastle-upon-Tyne. In 50 other large towns the death-rate from the seven zymotic diseases averaged 2·7 per 1000, and was slightly higher than in the 18 towns ; it was less than 1 per 1000 in Ipswich, Cambridge, Reading, Yarmouth, and Dover, but exceeded 5 per 1000 in Exeter, Carlisle, Bury, and Wigan.

The 1084 fatal cases of small-pox returned in the first three months of this year showed a further considerable decline from the numbers returned in any quarter since September 1870, when the recent epidemic first became prevalent. The deaths from this disease showed a further decline in each of the Registration Divisions, but still numbered 282 in the West Midland Counties, 197 in Yorkshire, 117 in the Northern Counties, and 116 in the South Western Counties ; 154 fatal cases were returned in Staffordshire, 143 in the West Riding of Yorkshire, 87 in Cornwall, 66 in Lancashire, 56 in Worcestershire, 50 in the East Riding of Yorkshire, 48 in Durham, and 45 in Cumberland. The disease is still more or less fatally prevalent at Oldbury, Newcastle-under-Lyme, Truro, Helston, Halesowen (Worcestershire), York, Huddersfield, Darlington, Hartlepool, Cockermouth, and Whitehaven. The deaths from small-pox in England only averaged 450 in the first three quarters of 1870; they were, therefore, more than twice as numerous last quarter as before the outbreak of the recent epidemic; it is only necessary, however, to state that 7720 deaths from this disease were returned in the first quarter of 1872 (when the epidemic reached its climax) to show the extent of the decline in this fatality exhibited in the present return.

Fever, including typhus, enteric, or typhoid fever, and all forms of simple continued fever, caused more deaths last quarter than any other form of zymotic disease. The 3402 deaths referred to fever were, however, considerably less than the numbers returned (among smaller populations) in the corresponding quarters of the three years 1870–1–2, when they were 4177, 4073, and 3544, respectively. These deaths were equal to an annual rate of 59 per 100,000 of the population against 75, 73, and 62, in the three preceding corresponding quarters. In the 18 largest English towns the equivalent fever rate last quarter averaged 56, and ranged from 18 and 40 the lowest in Nottingham and London, to 87 and 145 in Bradford and Sheffield. As the fever rate was slightly lower among the six and half millions of persons living in our 18 largest towns than in the whole country, and as the fatality from fever is usually the result of overcrowding or impure air or water, it is fair to assume that so soon as the smaller towns and villages shall have the advantage of sanitary organization like that now enjoyed by most of the largest towns, the death-rate from fever and other zymotic diseases will decline. Fever was prevalent during last quarter throughout the greater part of Staffordshire, especially at Longton, and in many parts of Durham county. Local outbreaks of fever appear to have also occurred in Calstock, Sherborne, Doncaster, Hetton-le-Hole (Durham), Newport (Monmouth), Pontypridd, and Ystradgunlais.

Whooping-cough is usually most fatal in the first quarter of the year; the 2935 deaths referred thereto last quarter were less by 1764 than those returned in the same period of last year. No less than 693 occurred in London, 405 in Lancashire, and 259 in the West Riding of Yorkshire. The disease was exceptionally fatal in St. Columb and Falmouth, and caused 72 deaths in the borough of Birmingham.

Scarlet fever was fatally epidemic during 1870, but the mortality from this disease has since steadily declined. In the first quarter of the three years 1870–1–2 the deaths from scarlet fever were 6693, 6086, and 3385, respectively; they further declined last quarter to 2644, of which 676 occurred in Lancashire, 250 in Staffordshire, 234 in the West Riding of Yorkshire, 186 in Northumberland, and 144 in Warwickshire. Among the 18 large towns this disease was more or less fatal in Manchester, Newcastle, Oldham, and Birmingham; and outbreaks of the disease occurred in Oswestry, Darlaston, Wednesbury, Sleaford, Wirksworth (Derby), Glossop, Bollington (Cheshire), Runcorn, Bury, Poulton-le-Fylde, Blyth (Northumberland), Tregaron, and Ruabon.

The decline in the fatality of measles was almost as marked as that of the other diseases of the zymotic class. The fatal cases last quarter were but 1204, against 1922, 1476, and 3121, in the three previous corresponding quarters; 401 occurred in Lancashire, 83 in North Wales, 78 in Durham, and 61 in Leicestershire. The fatality of measles was excessive in Olney (Bucks), Glastonbury, Loughborough, Salford, Manchester, Carlisle, Festiniog, and Bangor.

The deaths referred to diphtheria differed but slightly from those in the first quarter of last year, while those returned from diarrhœa somewhat exceeded the numbers in recent corresponding quarters. The deaths from diphtheria were proportionally numerous in Wadhurst (Sussex), Bedale (Yorkshire), and in Merthyr-Tydfil.

In the principal English public institutions, including workhouses, hospitals, and lunatic asylums, 12,863 or 9·7 per cent. of the total deaths were recorded; the proportion of these deaths in the corresponding quarter of the three years 1870–1–2 was 8·7, 9·7, and 8·9 respectively. In the 18 large towns last quarter this proportion averaged 15·3 per cent., and ranged from 7·4 in Oldham, to 17·2 and 18·4 in Wolverhampton and London. The inquest cases registered in England and Wales during the three months under notice were 7057 or 5·3 per cent. of all the deaths, against 4·7, 5·0, and 4·6 per cent. in the three previous corresponding quarters; in the 18 large towns the per-centage last quarter averaged 7·2, and was lowest, 3·6, in Bradford, while the highest proportions were 8·5 in Manchester and 11·1 in Birmingham. These per-centages of inquest cases in our large towns suggest the idea that too few Coroner's inquiries as to causes of death are held in Bradford, unless too many are held in Birmingham. The 2195 English Registrars report that 4124 or 3·1 per cent. of the deaths from all causes resulted from different forms of violence; in the corresponding quarters of 1871 and 1872 the deaths from violence were only 3883 and 3885. In the 18 large towns the proportion of deaths from violence last quarter averaged 3·8 per cent., and while it was so low as 1·8 in Bradford, was 5·7 and 5·8 per cent. respectively in Liverpool and Birmingham.

London.—The health of the population living within the Metropolitan registration area, estimated at about three and a quarter millions of persons at all ages, was remarkably satisfactory during the first three months of this year, if judged either by the death-rate from all causes, or by the fatality from the principal zymotic diseases. The annual rate of mortality did not exceed 22·7 per 1000 persons living, while in the three previous corresponding quarters it was 26·7, 26·9, and 24·0 respectively. When it is considered that this large population is living within an area of 75,362 acres, with an average density of 43 persons to an acre, the fact that the London death-rate was lower last quarter than the average rate for the whole of England and Wales, is important evidence of the benefit derived from sanitary organisation under which London lives; few will doubt, moreover, that even this sanitary system is susceptible of much improvement and increased efficacy. The seven principal diseases of the zymotic class caused 1566 deaths last quarter, which were no less than 2164 below the average number in the corresponding quarter of the ten years 1863–72, after correction for increase of population. The annual death-rate from these seven diseases in the thirteen weeks ending 29th March was only 1·9 per 1000, whereas it averaged 2·6 in the eighteen large towns, and was 2·4 in the whole of England and Wales. Whooping-cough was the only zymotic disease which was especially fatal; the deaths from scarlet fever and measles were remarkably few, and the fatal cases of small-pox were fewer than in any previous corresponding quarter since 1862. The deaths referred to different forms of fever were but 337, against 458 and 402 in the two previous corresponding quarters; the annual death-rate from fever, in the whole country was equal to 59 per 100,000 persons living, while within the Metropolitan area this fever rate was but 40. Diseases of the respiratory organs and phthisis caused 7306 deaths in London, which were 477 below the corrected average number in the corresponding period of the last ten years; these deaths showed an annual rate of 8·7 per 1000 persons living. The unusually low temperature of February caused a large increase in the rates of mortality from all causes, but especially from diseases of the respiratory organs. The annual death-rate at all ages from these diseases during the five weeks ending 1st February was only 6·3 per 1000, while, influenced by the cold weather in February, it rose to 10·6 in the next five weeks ending 8th March. The cold weather affected the mortality from these diseases, at the different groups of ages, to a very different extent. Among children under five years of age the annual rate per 1000 rose from 12·1 in the five weeks ending 1st February, to 18·3 in the succeeding five weeks, under the influence of the February cold; among children and adults aged between 5 and 40 years, the rate only increased from 3·1 to 3·8; while between 40 and 60 it rose from 8·0 to 13·9, and at 60 years and upwards from 22·5 to 53·5 per 1000.

The detailed information in the weekly returns as to the causes of death and the ages at death in London, gives the means of studying the influence of temperature upon the mortality from various forms of disease, not only at all ages, but at each of several groups of ages. It would be important to be able to compare these London results with those for other large towns, and for some of the recently formed Rural Sanitary Districts. The limits of this Return, even if the facts were at hand, would render it impossible here to discuss these results; it may, however, be hoped that the form of returns adopted by the numerous medical officers recently appointed for both Urban and Rural Sanitary Districts will be sufficiently uniform in character to afford the means for this and other important comparisons of results. Invaluable light might thus be thrown upon the causes of the variation in death-rates, which can at present be little more than guessed at.

Health of Foreign Cities.

The following facts relating to Indian and Foreign Cities are derived from official returns furnished by various authorities abroad:

In Paris the deaths during last quarter numbered 11,088, and were at the annual rate of 24·4 per 1000. In Brussels the births were 1581, and the deaths 1218; the respective rates were 34·4 and 26·5. ‡ These are the average prices at which seaborne Newcastle, Sunderland, and Hartlepool coals are put in barge from the collier in the Thames; the difference between these prices and those charged to the consumer represents the cost of distribution and merchant's profit. This information is derived from the figures in Table X., which has been supplied by Mr. Richard Meade of the Mining Record Office.

Note.—The deaths in Manchester and Bristol include paupers belonging to these cities who died in Workhouses situate outside the Municipal boundaries.

* The figures for the English towns are the numbers enumerated in April 1871, as finally revised at the Census Office, and raised to the middle of 1873 by the addition of two years and a quarter's increase, calculated on the rate which prevailed between 1861 and 1871. The population of Dublin is taken as stationary at the revised number enumerated in April 1871.

* Prices (including freight, city dues, and other incidental charges) at which Coal is sold to the merchant and put in barge from collier in the Thames. The difference between these prices and those charged to the consumer represents the cost of distribution and merchant's profit. See also Table III., col. 7.

* The Registration Counties consist of groups of entire Registration Districts; which Districts are, in general, identical with the Poor Law Unions. As the principle adopted has been to place a District or Union which extends into more than one County with the County in which either the principal town or the greater part of the population is located the limits of the Registration Counties differ more or less from the boundaries of the Counties proper.

† These are the revised figures and will be found to differ from those hitherto published in the Quarterly Returns.

‡ The averages of Marriages and Births are given only for the Eleven Divisions and for Registration Counties.

§ See page 14, note ‡.

NOTE.—The Registrars alone must be considered responsible for the opinions expressed in the foot notes respecting the prevalence of epidemic diseases, also as to the statements respecting sanitary arrangements, &c. &c.

* The Superintendent Registrars' Districts are collections of contiguous Parishes or Places, generally identical with the Poor Law Unions of the same names; they are 626 in number, and are here arranged topographically under the Registration Counties.

† These figures have been furnished to the Registrar-General by the Ordnance Survey Department, and will be found to differ in many instances from those previously published in the Quarterly Returns. They do not include, as heretofore, space occupied by Foreshore or Tidal Water of Rivers and Creeks.

* The Sub-districts (2195 in number) comprise the Parishes or Places in which the Births and Deaths are registered by Registrars severally appointed for that purpose. The letter W denotes that the Sub-district contains within its limits a Workhouse belonging to the District or Union; w indicates that a Workhouse, or in some instances an Industrial School, belonging to another District or Union, is included; H indicates Hospital or Infirmary; and L Lunatic Asylum.

† Alterations in the limits of some of the Registration Sub-districts have been made within the period for which the average has been formed. In these cases the deaths entered in the column headed "Average" have been proportioned to the population, and the estimated number distinguished thus ?.

‡ The numbers of Births and Deaths, as well as the details given, "Under 1 year of age" and the twelve subsequent headings, in this Table for London, are derived from the Weekly Returns made by the Registrars, and relate to 13 weeks, viz., from 29th December 1872 to 29th March 1873.

* 237 : 3.—The prevalence of small-pox is decreasing.

† 241 : 2.—The reported resolution of the Swindon Local Board to receive no more pauper small-pox patients into their hospital, in consequence of a dispute with the Board of Guardians, is much to be regretted, as it is very desirable that cases of such infectious diseases should be treated in a special hospital and not in the workhouse.

* 296 : 1.—Small-pox is still prevalent but in a milder form. Scarlet fever has almost disappeared. The population has temporarily increased through the employment of a large number of navvies in the construction of a railway through the district.
† 299 : 1.—No death from small-pox has occurred since 24th January last.
‡ 299 : 2.—No death from small-pox occurred during the last eight weeks of the quarter.
§ 299 : 3.—The increase in the number of violent deaths and inquest cases was in consequence of two wrecks which occurred off the coast.
‖ 300 : 1.—The age at death of one female was stated to be 102 years.
¶ 300 : 2.—The deaths from whooping-cough all occurred in the last three weeks of the quarter.

Remarks on the Weather during the Quarter ending March 31st, 1873.

By James Glaisher, Esq., F.R.S., &c.

The warm period which set in on 9th December 1872, continued without interruption till 19th January, the excess of temperature above their averages on some of these days exceeding 13°, and for the period 1st to 19th January, the mean excess of daily temperature being 10°. Then followed a few days with temperatures differing but little from their averages. On 25th January a cold period began, and continued throughout February, the average defect of daily temperature for the period between 25th January and 1st March being 4° ; this was succeeded by a week's warm weather, the excess of daily temperature from 2nd to 9th March being $3\frac{1}{2}$° nearly; a fortnight of cold weather followed, the average defect of temperature being $3\frac{1}{4}$° daily, and the quarter closed with a week's warm weather; the average daily excess from 24th March amounting to $3\frac{1}{2}$°.

The prevailing wind during the warm periods was a compound of the S. and W., and during the cold period a compound of the E. and N.

The mean temperature of the month of February at Greenwich was $7\frac{3}{4}$° below that in January, and that of March was $7\frac{1}{2}$° above that of February; the temperature of January and March were, therefore, nearly equal; the former month being slightly the warmer.

The mean decrease of temperature from January to February from all stations was 6°·1; and the mean increase from February to March was 6°·1.

The mean temperature of January was 4° above the average of the 32 preceding Januaries, and $5\frac{3}{4}$° above the average of 102 years, whilst that of February was 5° below the average of the 32 preceding Februaries, and $4\frac{1}{4}$° below that of 102 years. The mean temperature of March differed but little from its average value.

Back to 1771 the following are the instances of so high mean temperature of January, viz.,

|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1796 | it was | 45°·3 | 1846 | it was | 43°·7 | 1853 | it was | 42°·4 |
| 1804 | „ | 43°·2 | 1851 | „ | 42°·9 | 1866 | „ | 42°·6 |
| 1834 | „ | 44°·4 | 1852 | „ | 42°·0 | 1873 | „ | 42°·1 |

Therefore back to 1771 there have been only seven Januaries with higher mean temperature than in that of the present year.

The following are instances of low mean temperature in February :—

| | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1771 | it was | 33°·4 | 1795 | it was | 34°·1 | 1838 | it was | 32°·9 |
| 1772 | „ | 34°·2 | 1800 | „ | 34°·1 | 1845 | „ | 32°·7 |
| 1782 | „ | 34°·4 | 1814 | „ | 34°·0 | 1853 | „ | 33°·3 |
| 1784 | „ | 31°·9 | 1827 | „ | 31°·6 | 1855 | „ | 29°·4 |
| 1785 | „ | 30°·4 | 1830 | „ | 34°·2 | 1873 | „ | 34°·3 |

So that we have to travel back 18 years for so cold a February; and in 102 years there have been only 14 instances of like Februaries.

The corresponding three months most similar to those of this year were in 1853, where the mean temperatures were 42°·4, 33°·3, and 38°·5 respectively, showing a decrease of 9°·1 for February and an increase of 5°·2 for March.

A decline of several degrees in temperature from January to February is rare; the instances on record are as follows :—

|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1782 | the decline was | 4°·5 | 1804 | the decline was | 6°·3 | 1855 | the decline was | 5°·5 |
| 1785 | „ | 5°·7 | 1845 | „ | 5°·5 | 1860 | „ | 4°·0 |
| 1796 | „ | 5°·7 | 1853 | „ | 9°·1 | 1873 | „ | 7°·8 |

The decline of temperature from January to February this year is the greatest of any, (excepting only that in 1853) that has occurred in the period exceeding 100 years.

An increase of several degrees in the mean temperature of March over that in the preceding February is not rare ; the instances are as follows :—

| | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1772 | the increase was | 4°·3 | 1821 | the increase was | 6°·8 | 1843 | the increase was | 6°·9 |
| 1773 | „ | 6°·0 | 1827 | „ | 11°·5 | 1844 | „ | 6°·3 |
| 1774 | „ | 4°·8 | 1830 | „ | 11°·6 | 1853 | „ | 5°·2 |
| 1777 | „ | 8°·8 | 1836 | „ | 6°·8 | 1855 | „ | 8°·5 |
| 1780 | „ | 13°·9 | 1838 | „ | 8°·6 | 1858 | „ | 6°·8 |
| 1801 | „ | 5°·6 | 1841 | „ | 10°·9 | 1873 | „ | 7°·6 |
| 1803 | „ | 6°·0 | | | | | | |

Thus it would seem that the increase this year has been exceeded seven times in the 102 years.

The reading of the barometer at 159 feet above sea level was about 29·6 in. at the beginning of January. A decrease, which reached its minimum (29·3 in.), occurred during the 1st and 2nd, but after this day generally increasing values were recorded till the 14th when 30 in. was reached. A very rapid decrease then set in and during the whole of the 20th the readings were but little in excess of 28·3 in., this continued depression being almost unprecedented. The mean daily values for the 19th, 20th, 21st, and 22nd were respectively 1·2 in., 1·1 in., 0·9 in., and 1·1 in., below the average. The above mentioned low readings were counterbalanced by a long continued wave of high values which lasted during the greater part of February, from the 9th to the 21st scarcely any values below 30 in. being recorded. There was a rapid decrease from 29°·52 on the morning of the 25th to 28°·69 on the afternoon of the 26th. During March frequent oscillations were recorded but the mean daily values were generally in defect of the average. The minimum of the month, 28·99 in. occurred on the 1st, and the maximum, 30·04 in. on the 26th, thus giving a range of 1·05 in. The principal movements were an increase to 29·9 in. on the 5th, a decrease to 29·0 in. on the 11th, a general increase to 30·0 in. on the 26th, and a decrease to 29·5 in. on the 31st.

The average atmospheric pressure at Greenwich in February was 0·325 inch greater than in January, and 0·278 inch greater than in March.

The average greater pressure in February from all stations was 0·412 inch over that in January and was 0·294 inch over that in March.

The mean temperature of January was 42°·1, being 5°·8 above the average of the preceding 102 years; and higher than in any year back to 1866 and then again to 1853, the temperature in those years being respectively 42°·6 and 42°·4.

The mean temperature of February was 34°·3, being 4°·3 lower than the average of the preceding 102 years, and lower than in any previous year back to 1855 when 29°·4 was recorded.

The mean temperature of March was 41°·9, being 0°·9 higher than the average of the preceding 102 years, lower than in 1872 and 1871, but higher than in 1870 and 1869.

The mean high day temperatures were respectively 3°·8 and 1°·6 higher than their averages in January and March, but 6°·3 lower in February.

The mean low night temperatures were higher than their respective averages in January and March by 4°·6 and 0°·1, but lower in February by 3°·3.

Therefore the days and nights were warm in January and March, but cold in February.

The daily ranges of temperature were less than their respective averages by 1°·6 and 3°·0 in January and February, but greater in March by 1°·5.

The fall of rain was 0·6 in. and 0·3 in. in excess of the average in January and February, but 0·4 in defect in March.

The mean temperature of the air in the three months ending February, constituting the three winter months, was 39°·8, being 1°·8 higher than the average of the preceding 102 years.

Note.—Erratum. Marlborough College.—The reading of minimum radiation thermometer for 1872, October, should be 35°·9 instead of 25°·9; and the mean for the quarter 34°·9 instead of 31°·5. It is probable that the readings for some time past have been too low.

QUARTERLY RETURN

MARRIAGES, BIRTHS, AND DEATHS

REGISTERED IN THE DIVISIONS, COUNTIES, AND DISTRICTS OF

ENGLAND;

WITH CERTAIN DETAILED INFORMATION RELATING TO THE DEATHS IN EACH REGISTRATION SUB-DISTRICT.

By Authority of the Registrar General.

PUBLISHED BY EYRE AND SPOTTISWOODE, 9, EAST HARDING ST., FETTER LANE, E.C.

No. 98.] Marriages—January, February, March, 1873. Births and Deaths—April, May, June, 1873. [Price 8½*d.*

General Register Office, Somerset House,
31st July 1873.

In the UNITED KINGDOM the births of 277,405 children, and the deaths of 164,780 persons of both sexes, were registered in the three months ending 30th June 1873. The natural increase of population was thus 112,625.

The registered number of persons married in the quarter ending 31st March 1873, was 116,736.

The resident population of the United Kingdom in the middle of 1873 is estimated at 32,131,488; that of England and Wales amounting to 23,356,414, of Scotland to 3,430,923, and of Ireland to 5,344,151. The corrected* death-rate of the quarter was 20·7 per 1000; the birth-rate 35·6; and the marriage-rate in the first quarter of the year was 16·5 per 1000.

The several facts concerning Scotland and Ireland are recorded in the quarterly reports of the Registrars General of those parts of the United Kingdom.

ENGLAND.

This Return comprises the BIRTHS and DEATHS registered by 2195 Registrars in all the districts of England during the quarter ending 30th June 1873; and the MARRIAGES in 13,508 churches or chapels, in 6962 registered places of worship unconnected with the Established Church, and in 626 Superintendent Registrars' Offices, in the three months ending 31st March 1872.

The people have been prosperous, and as is usual under these circumstances the marriages exceeded the average in the first quarter of the year. The birth-rate exceeded in the winter, and was below the average in the spring quarter. The winter and the spring were healthy. The high prices of the necessaries of life, the effects of the depreciation of gold and paper, have been met by rises in the wages of the working classes. Small-pox declined and all other zymotic diseases were at a low ebb. Fever was of all of them the most fatal.

Marriages.

The number of persons married during the first quarter of the year 1873 was 82,418, giving a rate per 1000 persons living of 14·3, or 0·5 above the average rate for the corresponding quarter of the ten years 1863–72, and higher than in the March quarter of any year since 1866. Of the eleven Registration Divisions the South Western alone exhibited a decrease from its average number of marriages for the three previous corresponding quarters. In the Northern Division the numbers exceeded the average by nearly one fifth. The counties showing the greatest excess were Huntingdonshire, Buckinghamshire, Staffordshire, Cumberland, Bedfordshire, and Durham. In thirteen counties the marriages fell short of their average numbers, the deficiency being relatively greatest in Oxfordshire, Dorsetshire, Devonshire, and Monmouthshire. In the last-mentioned county during several previous quarters the marriages had largely exceeded the average.

Births.

In the second quarter of 1873 ending 30th June, 206,618 births were registered, fewer by 2093 than in the second quarter of last year. The birth-rate, 35·5 per 1000, was 0·8 below the mean rate for the ten previous June quarters, and as much lower than the rate for the corresponding quarter of 1872. In the South Eastern, South Midland, Eastern, and South-western Registration Divisions the births were below the average numbers registered in them respectively for the three previous corresponding quarters. Twenty counties showed a decline from their respective averages, the greatest falling off being in Huntingdonshire, Herefordshire, Suffolk, and Berkshire. In most of the remaining counties the increase was only slight; it was most considerable in Northumberland and Durham. In the eighteen largest English towns, including London, the birth-rates averaged 36·6 per 1000, against 37·7 in the previous corresponding quarter. In London the rate was 33·9, or 1·4 less than in the June quarter of 1872. The lowest rate last quarter in these eighteen towns was 32·4 in Norwich, and the highest 43·9 in Sunderland. In the fifty next largest towns the average birth-rate was 36·6, the same as in the eighteen towns. The variation of the rates in these fifty towns was from 23·2 in Hastings, 24·4 in Bath, and 25·4 in Chatham, to 47·5 in Gateshead, 49·0 in Dudley, and 50·0 in Wigan. The population of these last three towns may possibly have increased more rapidly than has been estimated, in which case the birth-rates would be lower than above stated.

Increase of Population.

The births during the three months exceeded the deaths by 87,867; the natural increase of population was thus at the rate of 966 per day. The emigrants of British origin, who sailed during the quarter from ports at which Government Emigration officers are stationed, numbered 103,382,* of whom 45,202 were English, 10,858 Scotch, and 47,322 Irish. The numbers in the previous corresponding quarter were, English 40,423, Scotch 9168, and Irish 39,622. The proportions of English, Scotch, and Irish emigrants last quarter to a million of the respective populations of the three countries were, English 1935, Scotch 3164, Irish 8854. Of the 103,382 British emigrants 80,835 had for their destination the United States, 16,169 British North America, 5209 the Australian Colonies, and the remaining 1169 various other places.

Prices, Pauperism, and the Weather.

The average price of wheat for the three months ending 30th June last was 56*s.* 5*d.* per quarter against 55*s.* 10*d.* in the previous quarter ending 31st March, and 56*s.* 8*d.* in the quarter ending 30th June 1872. The mean price for the June quarter in the ten years 1863–72 was 51*s.* 6*d.* Potatoes (best Regents) averaged 212*s.* 6*d.* per ton at the Borough and Spitalfields Markets, or 75*s.* 6*d.* more than in the corresponding three months of 1872, and nearly double the mean price (107*s.* 6*d.*) for the quarter ending 30th June in the ten years 1863–72. A further large advance took place in the price of meat, the average price of beef by the carcase at the Metropolitan Meat Market having reached 7⅜*d.*, and of mutton 8⅛*d.* per lb. In the previous quarter the respective averages were 6¾*d.* and 7⅝*d.*, and the mean prices for the same period of the previous ten years were 5⅞*d.* per lb. for beef, and 6½*d.* for mutton. The average price per ton of seaborne coal in the London Market was 29*s.* 3*d.* against 21*s.* 7*d.* and 16*s.* 2*d.* in the corresponding quarters of 1872 and 1871 respectively.

* This information is obtained from a Return with which the Registrar General is favoured by the Board of Trade. The total number of emigrants was 137,611, of whom 34,229 were foreigners. In the numbers here given 1998 cases, in which the origin was undistinguished, have been distributed proportionally amongst those in which the origin was stated.

The average number of in-door paupers relieved on the last day of each week in the quarter slightly exceeded the number in the corresponding quarter of 1872, but there was a considerable decrease in the number of out-door paupers, as will be seen on reference to Table III. The proportion of each class of paupers in the second quarter of each of the three years 1871–73 to 1000 of the estimated population was as follows :—

| | In-door. | Out-door. |
|---|---|---|
| Quarter ending 30th June 1871 - | 6·2 | 35·4 |
| " " 1872 - | 5·8 | 31·4 |
| " " 1873 - | 5·8 | 28·5 |

Mr. Glaisher's remarks on the meteorology of the quarter and accompanying Tables will be found on pp. 65–72.

The first five days of April were warm, with a mean daily excess of temperature of $3\frac{1}{4}°$ ; then followed a cold week with an equal deficiency. From the 14th to the 21st April the weather was again warm, the average daily excess of temperature being 6°·9. On the 22d April a long cold period set in, and continued till the 18th June, the deficiency of temperature averaging $2\frac{3}{4}°$ daily. The remainder of the quarter was warmer, but not uninterruptedly so, the temperature on four of the twelve days having been below the average for the season. The mean temperature for the quarter was 51·8 or 0·5 below the average in 102 years. The deficiency for April was 0·1, and for May 2·0 ; for June there was an excess of 0·7. The rainfall at Greenwich, differing but slightly from the mean quantity collected between latitudes 50° and 55°, amounted to 4·7 inches, or one inch less than the average in 58 years. In April and May there was a deficiency, and an excess in June.

Deaths ; and State of the Public Health.

The 118,751 deaths registered during the second or spring quarter of this year were 2194 below the average number returned in the corresponding period of the three years 1870–2, without any correction for increase of population, and the number was actually lower than in the second quarter of any year since 1868, when only 110,010 deaths were registered. The mortality was at the annual rate of 20·4 per 1000 persons estimated to be living, against 21·6, 21·3, and 21·0 respectively in the spring quarters of the three years 1870–1–2 ; the average rate in the corresponding quarter of the ten years 1863–72 was 21·8, while in the several years of that period the rates ranged from 24·2 in 1866 to 20·2 in 1868. The unfavourable effect upon the public health, especially among elderly people, produced by the prolonged continuance of the usual dry cold winds incidental to an English spring, appears to have somewhat counteracted the influence, upon the national death-rate last quarter, of the unusually small fatality of the principal zymotic diseases.

In the eleven Registration Divisions the mortality last quarter was so low as 16·5 and 17·5 per 1000 in the South-eastern and South Midland Divisions, which contain principally rural counties ; in the other divisions the rates ranged upwards to 22·9 in the northern counties (including the mining districts of Durham and Northumberland) and 24·1 in the north-western counties of Lancashire and Cheshire. Compared with the average number of deaths returned in the second quarters of the last three years, the deaths registered last quarter showed a considerable increase in Norfolk, Derbyshire, Cheshire, Lancashire, Cumberland, and North Wales ; this increase occurred in spite of a considerable decline both in the whole of England and Wales and in most of the other counties, and may generally be traced to the excessive fatality of zymotic disease.

The Registration Districts and sub-districts containing all the chief towns of England and Wales have at the present time a population estimated at nearly 13 millions and a half of persons ; among this urban population the annual death-rate was 21·6 per 1000, and 1·8 per 1000 below the average urban rate in the ten previous corresponding quarters ; the nearest approach to so low an urban rate in any of those ten spring quarters was 22·0 in 1867, while it ranged upwards to 26·4 in 1866. In the remaining or rural population the death-rate last quarter was 18·8 per 1000, and 0·9 below the average rate in the second quarters of the ten years 1863–72 ; only once during those ten years was the rural death-rate during the spring quarter lower than in the quarter recently ended, in 1868 it was but 17·4. Town death-rates naturally show a larger decline, as the result of sanitary progress, than do those in rural districts ; in the first place the excess in town death-rates afforded a more fruitful field for the operation of sanitary reform, and secondly, the importance of matters relating to the public health has been more slowly appreciated in agricultural than in urban neighbourhoods. The formation of rural sanitary districts is, however, now making rapid progress, and the appointment of competent health officers to such districts would doubtless soon result in a decline in the rural death-rates more nearly corresponding with the improvement in the health of towns, which has recently been conspicuous.

In eighteen of the largest English towns, including London, for which weekly returns are published, having an estimated aggregate population of about six millions and a half, the annual mortality last quarter averaged 22·0 per 1000, and exceeded but slightly the rate in the whole of the urban population, 21·6. The lowest rates in these eighteen towns were 16·9 in Portsmouth, 19·5 in Norwich, and 20·0 in London; the highest rates were 26·5 in Oldham, 27·0 in Newcastle-upon-Tyne, 29·0 in Manchester, and 30·4, in Salford. The average rate in these large towns differed but slightly from that which prevailed in the same period of last year ; the decline in the death-rates in Portsmouth and Leicester was considerable, while in Manchester, Salford, and Newcastle the death-rates were decidedly higher. The rate from the principal zymotic diseases in Manchester and Salford was nearly double that which prevailed in the aggregate of the eighteen towns ; the fatality of these diseases also showed a marked excess in Newcastle and Wolverhampton, while it was unusually low in Norwich, Nottingham, Portsmouth, and Sunderland. Both measles and scarlet fever were epidemic in Manchester, measles in Salford, and scarlet fever in Newcastle and Wolverhampton.

In fifty other large towns, estimated now to contain a population of rather more than two millions and a half, the death-rate last quarter was equal to 21·7, almost identical with the general urban rate, and 0·3 per 1000 lower than that in the eighteen larger towns. The following of these fifty towns showed rates below 17 per 1000 :—Colchester 14·6, Dover 15·2, and Cardiff 16·6 ; the two first mentioned of these three towns enjoyed an almost complete immunity from zymotic fatality. Exeter, Wigan, Bury, Blackburn, Gateshead, and Carlisle had death-rates between 25 and 30 per 1000, while in Macclesfield the rate was so high as 30·3, in Preston 30·9, and in Ashton-under-Lyne 32·8. The excess in the death-rate of most of these towns was due to an exceptional fatality of zymotic diseases.

The 118,751 deaths in England and Wales included 27,256, or 23·0 per cent., of infants under one year of age, and 31,115, or 26·2 per cent. of persons aged 60 years and upwards. The deaths of infants under one year were equal to 13·2 per cent. of the births registered during the quarter, this proportion being almost identical with that which prevailed in the three preceding corresponding quarters. Infant mortality, measured in this way, averaged 14·4 in the eighteen largest towns, and ranged from 11·1 and 11·4 in Portsmouth and Norwich, to 18·2 and 19·9 respectively in Liverpool and Oldham. The excessive infant mortality in Leicester, which has been continually noticed in these reports, showed a decline last quarter. In the manufacturing county of Lancashire the proportion of deaths under one year to births registered was 15·5 per cent. last quarter ; in Durham, containing principally a mining population, it was 15·1 per cent., while in the South-western Registration Division, which includes the agricultural counties of Wiltshire, Dorsetshire, Devonshire, Cornwall, and Somersetshire, the per-centage of infant mortality to births was only 11·0, and was so low as 9·5 in Wiltshire. One of the most noticeable features in the death returns for the quarter now under consideration was the high death-rate among persons aged 60 years and upwards, probably due to the influence of the cold winds of the past spring, through an excessive fatality of bronchitis and other inflammatory diseases of the respiratory organs. According to the proportion observed in the numbers enumerated in 1871, there were living in England and Wales at the middle of this year 1,745,569 persons aged 60 years and upwards ; among these elderly persons the annual rate of mortality during last quarter was equal to 71·5 per 1000, whereas during the spring quarter of the three years 1870–1–2 the rate among persons at these ages did not exceed 68·6, 65·7, and 66·2 per 1000 respectively. The proportion of deaths of persons aged 60 years and upwards to total deaths was 26·2 per cent. last quarter in England and Wales, against 23·1 and 23·6 per cent. in the two previous corresponding quarters; in the eighteen large towns it averaged only 20·9 per cent., and ranged from 15·5 and 16·1 per cent. in Salford and Bradford, to 23·7 per cent. in Nottingham and Liverpool, and to no less than 40·2 per cent. in Norwich. In explanation of the remarkably high per-centage in Norwich it is important to bear in mind that the proportions of persons living at the several groups of ages are found at each Census enumeration to differ widely in the various towns. For instance, the proportions of persons living in 1871 aged 60 years and upwards averaged 5·8 per cent. of the total population in the eighteen large English towns, and ranged from 4·7 per cent. in Sheffield, and 4·8 in Liverpool, to 7·4 and 9·7 per cent. respectively in Nottingham and Norwich. This large proportion of persons living at these ages in the last two mentioned towns would in great measure account for the large proportion which the deaths of elderly persons bear to the total deaths. If, however, the annual death-rate among persons estimated (from the proportions showed at the last Census) to be living at ages 60 years and upwards be calculated for one or two of these towns, results are produced which deserve further investigation. It has before been stated that in England and Wales last quarter the death-rate among persons at these ages was equal to 71·5 per 1000, and it is found to have been but 67·2 in the South-western Division, composed principally of agricultural counties. This annual death-rate among elderly persons was 80·3 per 1000 last quarter in Norwich, 81·0 in Bradford, 94·7 in Manchester and Salford, and 120·0 in Liverpool. It is scarcely surprising to find that in Liverpool, where the death-rate until quite recently was so excessive, elderly persons are delicate and die at an excessive rate. In the eighteen large English towns the annual death-rate last quarter among persons aged 60 years and upwards averaged 78·3 per 1000, and was 62·9 in Portsmouth. It appears from an examination of the causes of death in London that the high death-rate among elderly persons was there caused by the excessive fatality of diseases of the respiratory organs, and especially of bronchitis.

The present return again shows a satisfactory decline in the fatality of the principal zymotic diseases. In England and Wales, of the 118,751 deaths from all causes, 722 were referred to small-pox, 1524 to measles, 2088 to scarlet fever, 460 to diphtheria, 2575 to whooping-cough, 2883 to fever, and 2018 to diarrhœa; in all, 12,270 deaths resulted from these seven principal zymotic diseases, against 18,120, 21,420, and 19,636 in the corresponding quarters of the three years 1870–1–2. The annual death-rate from these seven diseases, which had been equal to 3·2, 3·8, and 3·4 in the spring quarters of the three years 1870–1–2, declined last quarter to 2·1 per 1000; this decline is in some measure due to the disappearance of the small-pox epidemic which prevailed in 1871–2, but the general decline in the fatality of the other zymotic diseases, renders it possible to attribute the decrease in the deaths from this class of diseases to an improved and improving sanitary condition of the people.

In the eighteen large English towns, including London, the annual death-rates from these seven zymotic diseases averaged 2·6 per 1000, and ranged from 1·1 in Norwich to 5·6 in Salford. In the fifty other towns ranking next in size as regards population, this zymotic rate was 2·3 per 1000, and while it was less than one per 1000 in Dover, Brighton, Cambridge, Colchester, and Bath, ranged upwards in the other towns to 6·0 and 6·1 per 1000 in Walsall and Gateshead. In the whole of England and Wales exclusive of the sixty-eight large towns, the zymotic death-rate last quarter was equal to 1·8 per 1000.

More deaths in England and Wales last quarter were referred to different forms of fever than to any other zymotic disease; they were 2883, against 3524, 3269, and 2745 in the three preceding corresponding quarters. The annual death-rate from fever, which in the second quarters of the three years 1870–1–2 had been equal to 63, 58, and 48 per 100,000, slightly increased last quarter to 50. In the eighteen largest English towns the equivalent fever rate last quarter exactly corresponded with that in the whole of England and Wales, and ranged in the several towns from 36 per 100,000 in London and 39 in Leicester and Sunderland, to 99 and 126 respectively in Sheffield and Bradford. That the average rate from fever in our eighteen largest towns should not exceed that for the whole country, is satisfactory evidence of the improved sanitary condition of the six and a half millions of persons composing the population of those crowded town centres. A few years ago the fever rate in Liverpool was very high; last quarter it was but 53 per 100,000, and only slightly exceeded the average rate in the whole country. In many smaller towns and villages the fatality of fever still shows the necessity for conferring, as rapidly as may be, upon the whole nation the advantages of sanitary organization similar to that now enjoyed by many of the large towns. The death-rate from fever and other zymotic diseases, will then continue to decline still more rapidly. The fatal cases of different forms of fever showed an excess last quarter at Tottenham, Longton (Staffordshire), Kingswinford (Worcestershire), North Bierley (Yorkshire), Yarm (Durham), Blaenavon and Aberystruth (Monmouthshire), and at Aberdare and Ystradgunlais in Glamorganshire.

Whooping-cough was as usual less fatal in the second than it had been in the first quarter of the year; the 2575 fatal cases reported last quarter were also less by 840 than had been returned in the same period of last year. The disease, however, was somewhat fatally prevalent in London, caused 18 out of 50 deaths in Littleport sub-district of Ely, and prevailed to some extent in Essex.

The fatality of scarlet fever continues to decline; in the second quarters of the three years 1870–1–2 the deaths from this disease were 5973, 4210, and 2206 respectively, and further declined last quarter to 2088. Among the large towns scarlet fever was somewhat fatally prevalent in Newcastle, Manchester, Birmingham, and Wolverhampton; local outbreaks of the disease also occurred at Diss (Norfolk), Walsall, Glossop, Horwich (near Bolton), Harwood (near Blackburn), Fleetwood, Handsworth (near Sheffield), Ruabon, and in several villages in Cardiganshire. The deaths from diphtheria were also below the average, and the fatality of this disease calls for no special remarks.

The 1524 deaths referred to measles, although exceeding by 320 those returned in the preceding three months, were 834 below the average number in the three preceding corresponding quarters. More than half the fatal cases of measles last quarter occurred in the eighteen large English towns, including 302 in London and 244 in Manchester and Salford. The fatality of the disease was also excessive at the Royal Victoria Hospital, South Stoneham; East Budleigh (Devonshire), Lichfield, Carlisle, and Festiniog.

The waves of the recent small-pox epidemic continue to recede, and the 722 deaths from this disease were fewer than in any preceding quarter since the three months ending September 1870, when the number was 500; the epidemic may be said to have broken out in the last quarter of that year. The 722 deaths from small-pox last quarter included 105 in the West Riding of Yorkshire, 82 in Staffordshire, 67 in Durham, 57 in Cumberland, 49 in Lancashire, and 46 in Warwickshire. The disease was prevalent at Kenwyn (Cornwall), West Bromwich, Tipton, Great Grimsby, Morley (near Leeds), Darlington, Hartlepool, Durham, in the Egremont sub-district of Whitehaven, and Aberdare.

In the English workhouses, hospitals, and lunatic asylums 11,244, or 9·5 per cent. of the total deaths in the quarter, were recorded. In the eighteen large towns the proportion averaged 14·9 per cent., and ranged from 6·6 and 7·1 per cent. in Oldham and Bradford, to 16·3 and 18·3 per cent. respectively in Liverpool and London. The inquest cases registered in the three months were 6246, and equal to 5·3 per cent. of all the deaths; the proportion of inquests held was slightly in excess of that in recent corresponding quarters. In the large towns the inquest cases were equal to 6·9 per cent. of the deaths, the proportion in the several towns ranging upwards from 2·7 in Bradford, to 8·0 in London and Manchester, and 9·2 in Birmingham. If it be necessary and desirable to hold inquests in Birmingham upon more than 9 per cent. of the deaths which occur, it appears open to doubt whether a sufficient number of these inquiries be held in Bradford. The 2195 English registrars report that to different forms of violence 3895, or 3·3 per cent. of the deaths last quarter, were referred; in the eighteen large towns the proportion of deaths from violence averaged 3·8 per cent., and ranged from 1·6 in Oldham and 1·9 both in Bristol and Bradford, to 5·1 and 5·3 respectively in Birmingham and Liverpool.

Health of English Watering Places.—As in former corresponding seasons a special Table is published in the present Quarterly Return, which affords the means of ascertaining approximately the state of health recently prevailing in 47 seaside or inland watering places to which a considerable proportion of town residents resort at this time of the year for healthy relaxation. The population of the districts and sub-districts taken to represent these 47 watering places is estimated at rather more than a million persons, among whom the annual death-rate in the quarter averaged 18·0 per 1000, or 17·7 in the sea-side towns and 18·6 in the inland places. The figures show that the health of these towns was in the aggregate eminently satisfactory. Corrections have been very generally made for deaths in public institutions, which would otherwise have materially affected the value of the calculated death-rates for the purposes of comparison. It must be borne in mind that the registration sub-district is the smallest unit from which returns of births and deaths are forthcoming; in many instances therefore the smaller watering places are necessarily represented by entire sub-districts, which often contain a considerable rural area. The result of this, however, would in most instances be favourable to the watering place, as regards the rate of mortality obtained. The lowest rates appearing in the Table prevailed in Hove, Bognor, Exmouth, Lyme Regis, Ramsgate, and Dartmouth, in each of which the rate of mortality was under 14 per 1000; rates exceeding 24 per 1000 prevailed, however, in Poulton-le-Fylde sub-district (including Blackpool and Fleetwood), Southport, Aberystwith, Matlock, and Bangor. The annual death-rate in the quarter from the seven principal zymotic diseases averaged only 1·2 per 1000 in the 47 watering places, but exceeded 3 per 1000 in Herne Bay, Bangor, Fleetwood, and Matlock. Measles prevailed in Bangor, and scarlatina in Fleetwood and Matlock.

London.—The population residing within the London registration area is estimated to the middle of this year, at rather more than three and a quarter million of persons. The health of this large population, massed upon an area of 75,362 acres, with an average density of 43 persons to an acre, was very satisfactory during the first quarter of this year; indeed, the death-rate was lower during those three months than the rate which prevailed in the whole of England and Wales. During the second quarter of this year the London death-rate was equal to 20·0 per 1000, against 23·1 and 20·7 in the corresponding period of 1871 and 1872; this death-rate was again slightly lower than the general English rate. The deaths referred to the seven principal diseases of the zymotic class, were 1832, and were no less than 1909 below the average number in the corresponding quarter of the ten years 1863–72, after correction for increase of population. The annual death-rate from these seven diseases was equal to 2·2 per 1000 during the 13 weeks ending 28th June, whereas it averaged 2·6 per 1000 in 18 of the largest English towns, and was 2·1 in the whole of England and Wales. Whooping-cough was by far the most fatal disease in this class, the 807 deaths referred thereto showing an increase of 114 upon the number returned in the first quarter of the year; they were, however, 46 below the corrected average number referred to this disease in the corresponding quarter of the ten years 1863–72. The fatal cases of different forms of fever, which in the second quarters of the four years 1869–72 had been 542, 442, 384, and 304, further declined to 298 last quarter, which was rather less than half the corrected average number in the ten previous corresponding quarters. This decline in the fatality of fever may be referred to an improved sanitary organization, to a partially purified river, and to the greater purity of the water supplied by the metropolitan water companies. The deaths from fever in London last quarter were equal to an annual rate of 36 per 100,000 of the population, while in the other large towns it ranged upwards to 99 in Sheffield and 126 in Bradford. Only 37 deaths resulted from small-pox, while the corrected average number in the ten previous corresponding quarters was 662; the deaths from measles were 302 against an average of 563, and those from scarlet fever and diphtheria only 182 against an average of 694.

The annual death-rates from all causes last quarter in the several groups of registration districts, after distributing the 3048 deaths in institutions in proportion to population, were 19·5 in the West, 19·1 in the North, 20·5 in the Central, 20·4 in the East, and 20·4 in the South districts.

The excessive mortality among elderly persons, apparently due to the long period of low temperature and cold winds which prevailed with but trifling exceptions from 22d April to 18th June, is noticeable in London as well as in the whole country. The deaths of persons aged 60 years and upwards in London last quarter were 3711 against 3357 and 3388 in the two preceding corresponding quarters. Among those persons estimated to be living at the ages 60 and upwards the annual rate of mortality last quarter in London was 71·4 per 1000, and almost identical with the average rate in the whole of England; London may be considered generally favourable to the health of elderly persons, compared with other large towns, for the death-rate among persons aged 60 years and upwards was 81 in Bradford, 95 in Manchester and Salford, and 120 in Liverpool.

The deaths referred to diseases of the respiratory organs and phthisis in London, which in the second quarters of the three years 1870–1–2 had been equal to 6·5, 5·9, and 6·3 per 1000, respectively, gave a death-rate of 6·7 per 1000 in the three months ending June last. The largest increase appears to have occurred in the fatal cases of bronchitis, which were 2015, against 1470 and 1674 in the two preceding corresponding quarters. A comparison between the death-rates from this class of diseases in different seasons and in various localities is very desirable, and it is hoped that the form of returns adopted by the numerous medical officers of health, now being appointed for both urban and rural sanitary districts, will afford the means for such comparison.

Health of Foreign Cities.

The following facts relating to Indian and Foreign cities are derived from official returns furnished by various authorities abroad:

In Paris the deaths during last quarter were 10,555, and at the rate of 23 per 1000 annually. In Brussels 1573 births and 1144 deaths (excluding those of strangers, i.e. of persons not ordinarily residing within the city) were recorded, showing rates of 34 and 25 respectively. The deaths in Berlin numbered 6699 and the annual death-rate was 33; the fatal cases of typhus fever, which had been 231 in the previous quarter, declined to 183. In Vienna 4804 persons, exclusive of strangers, died during the quarter, and the corresponding death-rate was 30; 354 deaths were referred to diarrhœa. In Rome 830 persons were married, 1533 children were born, and 1724 persons (excluding strangers) died; the respective rates were 14, 25, and 28. The returns from Florence are incomplete. Those from Turin show the number of persons married to have been 968, of births 1553, and of deaths 1524, giving rates of 18, 29, and 29 respectively. In Amsterdam 1725 deaths in the quarter gave an annual death-rate of 25 per 1000; and 640 deaths in the Hague were equal to a rate of 28.

In the thirteen weeks ending 24th June, 3906 deaths were registered in Bombay, of which 1239 were referred to remittent fever, and 349 to small-pox; the death-rate from all causes was equal to 24 per 1000. In Calcutta 2606 deaths were returned in the thirteen weeks ending 14th June, and the rate was 23. In Madras 3684 deaths, including 498 from small-pox, were recorded during the quarter ending 13th June; the death-rate from all causes was 37.

In New York 6593 deaths were registered during the quarter, of which 274 were from scarlatina and 186 from diphtheria; the annual death-rate from all causes was 26. According to the returns from Philadelphia 3932 deaths occurred in that city, implying a death-rate of 21 per 1000.

† As published by the Comptroller of Corn Returns to the Board of Trade.

‡ These are the average prices at which seaborne Newcastle, Sunderland, and Hartlepool coals are put in barge from the collier in the Thames; the difference between these prices and those charged to the consumer represents the cost of distribution and merchant's profit. These figures are derived from returns which have been supplied by Mr. Richard Meade of the Mining Record Office.

* The Registration Counties consist of groups of entire Registration Districts; which Districts are, in general, identical with the Poor Law Unions. As the principle adopted has been to place a District or Union which extends into more than one County with the County in which either the principal town or the greater part of the population is located the limits of the Registration Counties differ more or less from the boundaries of the Counties proper.

† As enumerated at the Census in April 1871, and revised at the Census Office.

‡ The averages of Marriages and Births are given only for the Eleven Divisions and for Registration Counties.

§ See page 14, note ‡.

NOTE.—The Registrars alone must be considered responsible for the opinions expressed in the foot notes respecting the prevalence of epidemic diseases, also as to the statements respecting sanitary arrangements, &c. &c.

* The Sub-districts (2195 in number) are sub-divisions of Districts in which the Births and Deaths are registered by Registrars severally appointed for that purpose. The letter W denotes that the Sub-district contains within its limits a Workhouse belonging to the District or Union; w indicates that a Workhouse, Workhouse Infirmary, or an Industrial School belonging to another District or Union is included; H indicates Hospital or Infirmary; and L Lunatic Asylum.

† Alterations in the limits of some of the Registration Sub-districts have been made within the period for which the average has been formed. In these cases the deaths entered in the column headed "Average" have been proportioned to the population, and the estimated number distinguished thus ?.

‡ The numbers of Births and Deaths, as well as the details given, "Under 1 year of age" and the twelve subsequent headings, in this Table for London, are derived from the Weekly Returns made by the Registrars, and relate to 13 weeks, viz., from 30th March to 28th June 1873.

* 238 : 2.—The deaths from small-pox occurred in Welney. The disease is supposed to have been introduced by a woman who had caught it at Wisbech, and spread the contagion by going to a public-house ball, at which all three persons who afterwards died from the disease were present. The woman was prosecuted for this incaution, and was sentenced to two months' imprisonment.

* 501 : 1.—Of the 26 deaths from small-pox, 10 were registered in April, 10 in May, and 6 in June.
† 503 : 4.—The rapid increase in the number of births is due to the large additions to the population consequent upon the development of coal mines.

Remarks on the Weather during the Quarter ending June 30th, 1873.

By James Glaisher, Esq., F.R.S., &c.

The warm weather which set in a week previous to the close of the preceding quarter continued to the 5th day of April, the mean excess of temperatures above their averages being $3\frac{1}{4}^{\circ}$ daily; from the 6th to the 13th, the weather was very cold, the wind was mostly N.E., and the depression of temperature below the average was $3\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}$ daily; from the 14th to the 21st, the weather was warm, and particularly so on the 15th, 16th, and 17th days; the direction of the wind was for the most part from the East, and the average excess of mean temperature was $6^{\circ}\cdot9$ daily. From the 22d day of April, a long cold period set in, and the weather continued with but very few trifling exceptions, continually below the seasonable average till the 18th day of June; for this long period of 57 days, the deficiency of mean temperature was on the average $2\frac{3}{4}^{\circ}$ daily. On the 19th of June a warmer period set in, but not uninterruptedly, for four out of the remaining 12 days were of lower temperature than was due to the season; upon this period of 12 days there was a mean excess of daily temperature of $1\frac{1}{4}^{\circ}$.

The average duration of the different directions of the wind in days, and the average duration of each direction in each month in the quarter, are as follows :—

In which the numbers of + signs opposite to the compounds of the North winds, in the months of April and May, and the sign of − opposite to the South winds, indicate the preponderance of the former over, and of the deficiency of the latter below, their averages during these months. The departures in the month of June are small, excepting only that of the West wind, which prevailed for $3\frac{1}{4}$ days more than its average duration.

The mean temperature for the month of April at Greenwich was $4^{\circ}\cdot0$ above that in March; that in May was $4^{\circ}\cdot7$ above that in April; and that in June was $8^{\circ}\cdot3$ above that in May. The average increase from March to April was $5^{\circ}\cdot6$; from April to May was $5^{\circ}\cdot9$; and that from May to June was $6^{\circ}\cdot0$.

The average increase from all stations from March to April was $4^{\circ}\cdot0$; from April to May was $4^{\circ}\cdot1$; and from May to June was $7^{\circ}\cdot5$.

Note.—In reading this table it will be borne in mind that the minus sign (−) signifies below the average, and that the plus sign (+) signifies above the average.

The readings of the barometer at 159 feet above sea level varied but very little during April, the mean daily values oscillating above and below the average in periods of three or four days, but in no case was the departure on either side in excess of 0·4 inch. The absolute range in the month was eight tenths of an inch nearly, the mean value for the month being 29·8 in. The range of reading in May was greater than in April, amounting to a little more than one inch, though the mean value was nearly the same. A general tendency to increase was shown as the month advanced, the minimum 29·2 in. occurring on the 5th, and the maximum, 30·2 in. on the 29th. Frequent movements were experienced in June, but only to small amounts. The principal changes were:—A general increase to 30·1 in. on the 7th, a decrease to 29·4 in. on the 12th, an increase to 30·1 in. on the 21st, and a decrease to 29·6 in. on the 30th, but these oscillations were broken by very frequent smaller movements. The mean value for June was 29·8 in., and the range of reading in the month was three quarters of an inch.

The mean temperature of April was 45°·9, being 0°·1 lower than the average of 102 years, and lower than in any year back to 1861, when 44°·3 was recorded, the average values for the intervening years being about 48°.

The mean temperature of May was 50°·6, being 2°·0 lower than the average of 102 years, 0°·3 lower than in 1872, but 0°·1 higher than in 1869.

The mean temperature of June was 58°·9, being 0°·7 higher than the average of 102 years 0°·3 lower than in 1872, but 4°·1 higher than in 1871.

The mean high day temperatures of each of the three months in the quarter were lower than their respective averages.

The mean low night temperatures of the three months were also lower than their respective averages.

Therefore the days and nights throughout the quarter were cold.

The daily ranges of temperature were less than their respective averages in May and June by 0°·7 and 1°·0, but greater in April by 0°·9.

The fall of rain was 1·1 in. and 0·6 in. respectively in defect in April and May, but 0°·7 in. in excess in June.

The mean temperature of the air in the three months ending May, constituting the three spring months, was 46°·1, being 0°·4 lower than the average of the preceding 102 years.

Thunderstorms occurred on the 6th of April at Royston, Halifax, Hull, and Allenheads; on the 15th at Llandudno, Liverpool, and Halifax; on the 16th at Eastbourne, Brighton, Marlborough, Oxford, Gloucester, Cardington, Lampeter, Wisbech, Llandudno, and Liverpool; and on the 17th at Lampeter. It is generally remarked all over the country, in respect to the very small number of insects this season, and J. Jenner Weir, Esq., President of the Blackheath Natural History Society, in a letter, says:—"In accordance with your wish I give a short note on the condition of lepidopterous "life this year. I have been into Southern Kent and Sussex and never before in my experience "found so few day flying lepidoptera.

"The South Downs, which in the month of June generally swarm with blue butterflies of the "genus Lycæna, are this year almost without them, certainly, where hundreds usually occur only "units can be found.

"The day flying moths and Sphingidæ are equally rare.

"Another curious fact is, that all that I found were late in their appearance, by this I mean that "many insects were common as late as the last day in June.

'I consider the wet winter destroyed the ova, pupæ, and larvæ of the different species."

MONTHLY METEOROLOGICAL TABLE FOR THE QUARTER ENDING JUNE 30TH, 1873.

EASTBOURNE.—The height of the guage on Beachy Head has been altered this quarter from 610 feet to 515 feet according to barometrical measurements by Miss W. L. Hall. The position of the gauge has not been altered, so that in all previous observations the latter height must be substituted for the former.

LAMPETER.—There is some doubt as to the accuracy of the minimum temperature values for the last few days of April, the observer believing that the index of the thermometer had been slightly displaced by the wind.

NOTTINGHAM.—On June 19th the barometer was moved to a position 58½ feet lower than before. To the mean of the readings taken from June 19th to June 30th a correction of 0·063 in. has been applied additively to reduce them to those which would have been given had the instrument not been moved, or to an elevation above the sea of 241·3 feet.

No. 99.] Marriages—April, May, June, 1873. Births and Deaths—July, August, September, 1873. [Price 8½*d.*

General Register Office, Somerset House,
31st October 1873.

In the UNITED KINGDOM the births of 266,246 children, and the deaths of 150,736 persons of both sexes, were registered in the three months ending 30th September 1873. The natural increase of population was thus 115,510.

The registered number of persons married in the quarter ending 30th June 1873, was 130,678.

The resident population of the United Kingdom in the middle of 1873 is estimated at 32,131,488; that of England and Wales amounting to 23,356,414, of Scotland to 3,430,923, and of Ireland to 5,344,151. The corrected* death-rate of the quarter was 19·5 per 1000; the birth-rate 34·5; and the marriage-rate in the second quarter of the year was 17·4 per 1000.

The several facts concerning Scotland and Ireland are recorded in the quarterly reports of the Registrars General of those parts of the United Kingdom.

ENGLAND.

This Return comprises the BIRTHS and DEATHS registered by 2195 Registrars in all the districts of England during the quarter ending 30th September 1873; and the MARRIAGES in 13,531 churches or chapels, in 7008 registered places of worship unconnected with the Established Church, and in 626 Superintendent Registrars' Offices, in the three months ending 30th June 1873.

The summer has been healthy: the mortality low in town and country; small-pox fatal to very few children; measles, scarlet fever, diphtheria, and whooping-cough quiescent; fever less prevalent than in previous years. Diarrhœa, while cholera was looming round our shores, wherever there was dirt, asserted its destructive prerogative, but less than in previous hot seasons of the year. The birth-rate was above the average; the natural increase of population rapid. The marriage-rate in the quarter ending June implied that the country was prosperous, and that the mass of the population took such a cheerful view of their prospects as led them to marry in unusual numbers. If prices were high, so were wages.

Marriages.

In the quarter ending 30th June 1873, the number of persons married was 106,664, or at the rate of 18·3 per 1000 living. This rate was ·8 above that in the June quarter of the previous year, and equalled the rate in the corresponding quarter of 1866; in none other of the ten years 1863–72 did the marriage-rate in the second quarter of the year exceed 17·5. A comparison of the number of marriages registered in the quarter ending 30th June last with the average number in the three previous corresponding quarters, in each Registration Division and County, gives the following results. There was an increase in each Registration Division, the greatest proportionally being in the Northern and North Midland Divisions, and the least in the South-western, South-eastern, and Eastern. In the counties, the greatest increase is observed in Nottinghamshire, Durham, Staffordshire, Leicestershire, and Derbyshire; a very slight increase is seen in Suffolk, Dorsetshire, and Somersetshire; and a decrease in Wiltshire, Devonshire, Herefordshire, Shropshire, Rutland, and Westmorland. Viewing the rise or fall of the marriage-rate as a sufficiently reliable indication of the bright or gloomy prospects of the mass of the population, it may be inferred from the returns for this and several previous quarters that the prosperity which, on the whole, this country has enjoyed during the last two years has not been diffused amongst all sections of the community; but that, speaking generally, it has been experienced principally in the coal and iron-mining districts, to a less degree amongst the population engaged in the cotton and woollen manufactures, and very little, if at all, in the purely agricultural parts.

Births.

In the quarter ending 30th September last the births of 203,609 children were registered in England and Wales; the equivalent annual birth-rate was 34·6 per 1000, the same as for the September quarter of 1872, and 0·4 above the mean rate for the corresponding quarter in the ten years 1863–72. In two of the eleven Registration Divisions, the South-eastern and South-western, the births fell short of the averages taken from the numbers registered in them respectively in the three previous corresponding quarters. In seventeen counties the births registered last quarter were below the averages similarly obtained, the deficiency being greatest in North Wales, Herefordshire, Buckinghamshire, Bedfordshire, Dorsetshire, and Wiltshire. The excess over the average numbers was greatest in the counties of Durham, Leicester, Monmouth, Nottingham, Stafford, and Northampton, and in South Wales. The birth-rate in the eighteen largest English towns was 36·3, or 1·7 above that for the whole of England and Wales. The lowest rates were 31·0 in Norwich and 34·3 in London, both being below the rate for the whole country: the highest were 42·0 in Sheffield, 42·1 in Sunderland, and 45·5 in Leicester. In the fifty towns ranking next in order of population, the birth-rates averaged 35·8, and ranged from 21·5, 25·3, and 26·3 in Cheltenham, Bath, and Hastings respectively, to 46·0 in Wigan, 47·7 in Merthyr Tydfil, and 51·9 in Dudley.

Increase of Population.

The excess of births over deaths during the three months ending 30th September last was 89,268, or at the rate of 970 per day. Emigration was more active than in the corresponding quarter of any year since 1854, 60,093 * persons of British origin having sailed during the three months from ports at which Government emigration officers are stationed. Of these 60,093 emigrants, 36,777 were English, 5743 Scotch, and 17,573 Irish; the proportions to a million of the respective populations of the three countries being, English 1575, Scotch 1674, and Irish 3288. In the previous summer quarter the English emigrants numbered 36,135, the Scotch 5309, and the Irish 15,334. The destinations of the 60,093 emigrants last quarter were as follow: of 42,453 the United States; of 9667 British North America; of 6524 the Australian Colonies; and the remaining 1449 were distributed amongst other places. There was a considerable increase in the number of those who sailed to the Australian Colonies.

* This information is obtained from a Return with which the Registrar General is favoured by the Board of Trade. The total number of emigrants was 78,348, of whom 18,255 were foreigners. In the numbers here given 3006 cases, in which the origin was undistinguished, have been distributed proportionally amongst those in which the origin was stated.

Prices, Pauperism, and the Weather.

The price of wheat in the Michaelmas quarter 1873 averaged 61*s.* 4*d.* per quarter, showing an advance of nearly 5*s.* upon the average price in the preceding three months, and of 2*s.* 5*d.* upon that in the corresponding quarter of 1872. In the ten years 1863–72, the mean price for the September quarter was 52*s.* 5*d.* In the early part of last quarter old potatoes were so scarce that no regular quotations of prices could be given, but later the prospect of a better crop this year induced a lower range of prices than prevailed at the same season of last year. Best Regents averaged 94*s.* 6*d.* per ton at the Borough and Spitalfields Markets during last August and September, against 119*s.* in the corresponding period of 1872. The mean price for the September quarter in the ten years 1863–72 was 106*s.* Meat was slightly cheaper than in the previous three months, the average prices of beef and mutton by the carcase at the Metropolitan Meat Market having been $7\frac{1}{4}$d. and $7\frac{7}{8}$d. per lb. respectively last quarter, against $7\frac{3}{8}$d. and $8\frac{1}{8}$d. in the June quarter. For the third quarter of the previous ten years the average price of beef was 6*d.*, and of mutton $6\frac{5}{8}$d. per lb. The average price per ton of seaborne coal in the London Market was 30*s.* 1*d.*, or 10*d.* higher than in the quarter ending 30th June last. In the September quarter of 1872 it was 27*s.* 6*d.*, and in the corresponding quarter of 1871 only 17*s.* per ton.

The returns of pauperism for last quarter, when compared with those for the corresponding quarter of 1872, show a slight increase in the average number of in-door paupers, and a considerable diminution in the average number of out-door paupers relieved on the last day of each week. The proportion of each class of paupers in the third quarter of each of the three years 1871–73 to 1000 of the estimated population was as follows :—

| | In-door. | Out-door. |
|---|---|---|
| Quarter ending 30th September 1871 | 5·8 | 33·8 |
| „ „ 1872 | 5·5 | 29·6 |
| „ „ 1873 | 5·5 | 27·1 |

Mr. Glaisher's remarks on the meteorology of the quarter and accompanying Tables will be found on pp. 65–72.

Till the 19th July the weather was mostly cold, the mean daily temperature being $\frac{3}{4}°$ below the average. On July 20th a sudden change took place, and for a few days the weather was fine and hot, particularly on the 21st, 22d, and 23d ; the mean temperatures of these days were 71°·7, 75°·2, and 72°·3, exceeding their averages by 10°·2, 13°·7, and 10°·7 respectively. From this time till September 2d the weather was changeable, a few days of cold and a few days of warm weather alternating ; the warm days, however, were the more numerous, and upon the whole of the 45 days ending September 2d there was an excess of temperature averaging $2\frac{1}{2}°$. Then followed a cold fortnight, after which the weather continued for the most part cold to the end of the quarter, the deficiency of mean temperature for the last 28 days averaging rather more than 2° daily. The mean temperature for the quarter was 60°·3, or 0°·6 above the average in 102 years. In July the excess was 1°·8, and in August 1°·9 ; in September there was a deficiency of 1°·8. Rain fell very frequently during the first half of July, the whole of August, and the first half of September. The rain-fall at Greenwich during the three months amounted to 7·6 inches, agreeing with the average of 58 years. In July there was a deficiency of 0·7 inches, in August an excess of 0·8 inches, and in September there was exactly the average amount. The mean amount of rain collected between latitudes 50° and 55° was 8·30 inches ; it was only 6·90 inches between latitudes 52° and 53°, and 10·14 inches between latitudes 54° and 55°.

State of the Public Health ; Deaths.

In the third or summer quarter of this year 114,343 deaths were registered. The annual death-rate was so low as 19·4 per 1000, and 2 per 1000 lower than the average rate in the corresponding quarters of the 10 years 1863–72. The death-rate last quarter was lower than in the corresponding period of any year since the remarkably cold and wet summer of 1862, when the deaths were equal to but 18 per 1000 annually of the population. Had the death-rate last quarter been equal to the average rate in the ten last summers, nearly 12,000 more persons would have died, than those whose deaths were actually recorded. A very large proportion of this decrease in the number of deaths was due to the continuance of a marked decline in the fatality of the principal zymotic diseases.

In the eleven Registration Divisions of England and Wales, the annual death-rate last quarter ranged from 15·0 and 15·3 per 1000 in the agricultural counties of the South-western and South-eastern Divisions, to 23·1 and 23·5 in the principally manufacturing and mining counties of the North-western and Northern Divisions. Durham and Northumberland were the only counties in which the deaths registered last quarter exceeded the average numbers returned in the three preceding corresponding quarters.

The population of the Registration Districts and sub-districts containing all the chief towns of England and Wales is now estimated at about 13 millions and a half of persons ; the annual death-rate among this large urban population was equal to 22·0 per 1000 during last quarter, and was 2·1 below the average rate in the ten previous corresponding quarters. In the remaining and principally rural population of about 10 millions the death-rate did not exceed 16·0 per 1000, which was 1·7 below the same average. Compared with the average rate in recent corresponding quarters, the urban mortality again showed a larger actual decline than did the rural death-rate, although relatively considered the improvement in the health of rural districts bears similar satisfactory evidence of sanitary progress to that exhibited in the returns from our urban population.

In eighteen of the largest English towns, including London, containing an estimated population of about six millions and a half, the annual mortality last quarter averaged 23·9 per 1000, exceeding by nearly 2 per 1000 the general urban rate. The lowest rates among these eighteen towns were 17·5 in Portsmouth and 20·3 in Norwich ; the highest rate was 29·9 both in Manchester and Newcastle-upon-Tyne. Diarrhœa caused a considerable mortality in most of the large towns, and scarlet fever was somewhat fatally prevalent in Wolverhampton, Birmingham, Manchester, Leeds, and Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

In the districts and sub-districts taken as approximately representing fifty other large towns, ranking in respect of population next in size to the eighteen largest English towns, and estimated to contain a population of rather more than two millions and a half, the death-rate last quarter was equal to 21·0 per 1000, and was 2·9 below the average rate in the eighteen largest towns. Among these fifty towns the following showed rates below 17 per 1000 :—Cheltenham 13·6, Dover 15·3, Devonport 15·9, Hastings 16·1, Worcester 16·1, Bath 16·2, Chester 16·4, and Northampton 16·9 ; the fatality of zymotic diseases was especially low in Bath, Chester, and Cheltenham. Death-rates exceeding 27 per 1000 prevailed in the following towns :—South Shields 27·6, Blackburn 27·6, Yarmouth 27·8, Stockport 27·8, Gateshead 31·2, Preston 31·8, and Wigan 32·0 ; the fatality of scarlet fever contributed to the excessive rates in Blackburn, Preston, and Gateshead, while in Yarmouth, Stockport, Wigan, and South Shields the mortality from diarrhœa was exceptionally high.

The 114,343 deaths registered in the whole of England and Wales included 35,252 or 30·8 per cent. of infants under one year of age, and 24,524 or 21·4 per cent. of persons aged 60 years and upwards. To each 100 births registered during the quarter, 17·3 deaths of infants under one year of age were recorded, against 20·0, 19·4, and 18·2 per cent. respectively in the corresponding periods of the three years 1870–1–2. Infant mortality, measured in this way, was equal to 20·2 per cent. in the North-western Division, containing the counties of Lancashire and Cheshire ; while it was only 11·0 per cent. in Wales, and in the agricultural counties of the South-western Division. In eighteen of the largest English towns, including London, this proportion of infant mortality (which is in the summer quarter of the year principally governed by the fatality of diarrhœa) averaged 24·3 per cent. upon the births registered, and ranged from 16·7 and 17·0 in Portsmouth and Oldham, to 30·6 and 34·0 in Liverpool and Leicester. Infant mortality in Leicester, although so excessive, showed a decline from the still higher proportion, 40·5 per cent., which prevailed in the corresponding period of last year. The largest portion of the decline in the deaths registered in England and Wales last quarter occurred among those of children and adults aged between 1 and 60 years, and when the Annual Report is prepared it will probably be found in the deaths of children between 1 and 10 years, due to the marked decline in the fatality of small-pox, measles, and whooping-cough. The deaths of persons aged 60 years and upwards last quarter slightly exceeded the number returned in the corresponding period of either of the three preceding years; and the proportion to total deaths, which had been 19·4 in the third quarter of 1870 and 1871, and 20·4 in the same period of 1872, further rose to 21·4 last quarter. With a decline in infant mortality and of the deaths of children, and an increase in the proportion of deaths of persons aged 60 years and upwards, it may fairly be assumed that the mean age at death in England and Wales, last quarter, was higher than it has been in recent corresponding periods.

The present return shows a continuance of the decline in deaths referred to the principal zymotic diseases which has been noticed in recent quarters. During the three months ending September last, 277 were reported from small-pox, 1180 from measles, 2593 from scarlet fever, 502 from diphtheria, 1666 from whooping-cough, 3053 from different forms of fever, and 13,925 from diarrhœa; in all, 23,196 deaths resulted from these seven principal zymotic diseases, against 33,963, 31,388, and 27,428, in the corresponding quarters of the three years 1870–1–2. If the increase of population be taken into account, the annual death-rate from these seven diseases last quarter was equal to 3·9 per 1000 of the estimated population, while in the three preceding corresponding quarters it had been 6·0, 5·5, and 4·7, respectively. A large proportion of the zymotic rate in the summer quarter of the year is always caused by the fatality of diarrhœa. In the eighteen large English towns the annual death-rate from the seven zymotic diseases averaged 6·6 per 1000, and ranged from 3·5 and 3·7 in Oldham and Bristol, to 9·4 and 11·5 in Birmingham and Leicester. In fifty other large towns the death-rate from these diseases averaged 4·5 per 1000, and while it was less than 2 per 1000 in Bath, Cheltenham, Chester, Halifax, and Newport (Monmouth), it equalled or exceeded 10 per 1000 in Dudley, Preston, and Gateshead.

During the three months ending September last 13,925 deaths were referred to diarrhœa in England and Wales; in the three preceding corresponding quarters the numbers were 17,647, 15,919, and 14,681. Judging from the weekly returns received from an aggregate population of nearly six millions and a half of persons estimated now to be living in eighteen of the largest English towns, including London, the usual summer fatality of diarrhœa reached its maximum about the middle of August, and afterwards declined rapidly. The 13,925 deaths from diarrhœa during the three months were equal to an annual death-rate of 2·4 per 1000 throughout England and Wales; in the summer quarters of 1870–1–2 it was respectively 3·1, 2·8, and 2·5. In eighteen of the largest towns the diarrhœal rate last quarter averaged 4·5 per 1000, ranging from 1·9 and 2·8 in Bristol and Portsmouth, to 6·7 and 10·4 in Salford and Leicester. Among the fifty other large towns the death-rate from diarrhœa averaged 2·9 per 1000, was less than one per 1000 in Bath, Halifax, and Merthyr Tydfil, while it was 7·9 and 8·1 respectively in South Shields and Wigan. The variations in the death-rate from diarrhœa in the several large towns is very remarkable; for instance, during the four summer quarters of 1870–3 it averaged 9·8 in Leicester and 9·6 in Wigan, whereas it was but 0·7 per 1000 in Merthyr Tydfil. As fully 80 per cent. of the deaths from diarrhœa are of infants under two years of age, the fatality of this disease has an important influence upon infant mortality, and may be in some degree dependent upon the low constitutional stamina of the infants, but must be mainly due to the bad water supply, the defective sanitary condition of the houses, the improper food of the children, or the neglect of the mothers. Why diarrhœa is so fatal among infants at Leicester and Wigan, and why the infants at Merthyr Tydfil escape this fatality, would be a subject for inquiry at once interesting and useful. In the remainder of England and Wales, that is excluding these sixty-eight large towns, the death-rate from diarrhœa last quarter was equal to but

1·3 per 1000, against 1·6 and 1·5 in the summer quarters of 1871 and 1872. The summer epidemic of infantile diarrhœa is essentially an urban epidemic, and in the agricultural counties of the South-western Registration Division the annual death-rate from diarrhœa last quarter was only equal to 0·8 per 1000, while in the manufacturing counties of Cheshire and Lancashire, making up the North-western Division, it was 3·4. According to the Census taken in 1871, the proportion of the population living in towns with 20,000 inhabitants and upwards was only 12·8 per cent. in the South-western, and so high as 56·7 per cent. in the North-western Divisions. It may fairly be expected that the improved sanitary organization which is being steadily, though slowly, developed, will before long exercise an important influence upon the present unsatisfactory condition of our infant population living in large towns.

To simple cholera and choleraic diarrhœa 494 deaths in England and Wales were referred last quarter, against 527 and 471 in the two preceding corresponding quarters; they therefore differed but slightly from the numbers in recent summers. These 494 deaths included 144 in London, and 100 in the North-western Division, and bore generally a relative proportion to the deaths from diarrhœa. In some cases, however, it is exceedingly probable that severe cases of simple diarrhœa are sometimes returned as choleraic diarrhœa or English cholera; in connection with this suggestion it is worthy of note that in the registrar's sub-district of Carlton near Nottingham, not a single death was referred to diarrhœa, whereas of 25 deaths from all causes five of infants under two years were ascribed to cholera, the cause of death in each case being certified by the same medical practitioner.

Next to diarrhœa, different forms of fever caused more deaths last quarter than any other zymotic disease. The deaths referred to fever were 3053, against 4635, 3362, and 3195 in the three preceding corresponding quarters, showing a continuous decline, which bears evidence of improved sanitary conditions. The annual death-rate from fever was equal to 0·52 per 1000, but was 0·97 in the county of Durham, the fatal cases being relatively most excessive in Stockton, Hartlepool, Bishops Auckland, and Durham. An examination of the returns in detail shows that fever, principally of a typhoid form, was fatally prevalent in many small towns and villages, among which may be mentioned Sherborne, Saltash, Kenwyn (Truro), Atherstone, Gomersal, and Blaenavon.

The returns bear evidence of an increasing fatality of scarlet fever. The deaths from this disease, which in the third quarters of 1870–1–2 had been 7498, 3488, and 2423, respectively, rose last quarter to 2593, and exceeded the number in the preceding three months by 505. Of these deaths from scarlet fever 828 occurred in the eighteen large English towns, including 158 in London, 161 in Birmingham, 133 in Leeds, 114 in Manchester, 69 in Newcastle, and 48 in Wolverhampton; they were also excessive in Dudley, Blackburn, Preston, Gateshead, Chester-le-Street, Runcorn, Audenshaw, Deeping, Leyland, Golcar, South Creake, Combmartin, Yeovil, Ruabon, Ystradyfodwg, and Portmadoc. The fatal cases of diphtheria were 502, against 474 and 406 in the two preceding corresponding quarters; this disease was especially fatal at Baschurch (Salop) and at Penarth, near Cardiff.

Whooping-cough, which caused 1666 deaths last quarter, was less fatal than in any quarter since the beginning of 1870; 584 occurred in London, where the disease was relatively more prevalent than in any of the other registration divisions. The deaths from measles, which in the third quarters of the three years 1870–1–2 had been 1390, 1688, and 1267, did not exceed 1180 last quarter; these 1180 deaths included 664 in the eighteen large towns, of which 353 occurred in London, 96 in Sheffield, 75 in Liverpool, and 47 in Manchester. The prevalence of measles was more or less fatally epidemic in Leek, Festiniog, and Combmartin in North Devon.

Small-pox as an epidemic, which was so fatal during the whole of 1871, and the greater part of 1872, has generally disappeared. This epidemic reached its climax in the first quarter of 1872, when 7720 fatal cases were registered; since then the quarterly numbers have steadily and rapidly declined, and last quarter only 277 deaths were referred to the disease, which is probably the smallest number that has occurred in any quarter since the beginning of the present century. Only one death from small-pox occurred in the eight counties forming the South-midland Division, and only 15 among the population of three millions and a quarter of persons living within the Metropolitan area. The disease was, however, somewhat prevalent at Gloucester, Birmingham, Bolton, Bradford, Dewsbury, Stockton, Hartlepool, Whitehaven, and Pontypridd.

An examination in detail of the present return, as usual, discloses many instances of excessive death-rates and fatality from zymotic diseases, in small villages and rural sub-districts, but the numbers being small, and the localities not widely known, the cases are apt to escape general attention. The registration sub-district of Combmartin in North Devon is a case in point; it has an almost stationary population of about 3600 persons, among whom 33 deaths were registered last quarter, whereas the average number in the corresponding quarter of the three previous years is but 13. These 33 deaths included 10 fatal cases of scarlet fever and 8 of measles, all of which occurred within the parish of Combmartin, which has a population of only 1400 persons; this would be equal to an annual death-rate of more than 50 per 1000 from these two diseases alone, whereas the annual rate from these diseases in the whole of England and Wales last quarter did not average one per 1000.

In the workhouses, hospitals, and lunatic asylums 9244 deaths were recorded last quarter, or 8·2 per cent. of the total deaths; in the corresponding quarter of last year the proportion was 7·8 per cent. Half of these institution deaths were recorded in the eighteen large English towns, among which the proportion to total deaths averaged 11·9 per cent., and ranged from 6·5 in Sheffield, to 12·3, 13·5, and 15·1 per cent. respectively in Liverpool, Bristol, and London. During the three months 6046, or 5·3 per cent., of the deaths were registered upon the information of the coroner, being inquest cases. In the eighteen large towns the inquests were equal to 5·7 per cent. of the deaths, and in the several towns the proportion ranged from 2·3 per cent. in Sunderland to 7·4 and 7·8 respectively in Portsmouth and Birmingham. In considering these proportions it appears difficult to avoid one of two conclusions: either too few inquests are held in Sunderland, or an unnecessary number of such inquiries take place in Portsmouth and Birmingham.

London.—The health of the population residing within the Metropolitan registration area, estimated at rather more than three and a quarter millions of persons, was again last quarter comparatively satisfactory; the annual death-rate during that period was equal to 21·8 per 1000, against 23·4, 22·9, and 21·4, respectively, in the three preceding corresponding quarters, and was 4·3 per 1000 lower than the average rate in the seventeen next largest English towns, with an aggregate population about equal to that of London. The deaths referred to the seven principal diseases of the zymotic class were 4731, of which 3170 were fatal cases of diarrhœa, 584 of whooping-cough, 375 of fever, 353 of measles, 158 of scarlet fever, 76 of diphtheria, and only 15 of small-pox. These 4731 deaths were equal to an annual rate of 5·7 per 1000, whereas in the seventeen other largest towns this zymotic rate was 7·6 per 1000. Compared with the numbers of deaths returned from these seven zymotic diseases in the two previous corresponding quarters, the fatal cases of whooping-cough, fever, measles, and diarrhœa showed an increase, while those of small-pox and scarlet fever had declined. The most unsatisfactory feature is the increase in the deaths from different forms of fever: the deaths from this cause, which in the three preceding corresponding quarters had successively been 545, 355, and 316, rose again last quarter to 375, including 56 cases of typhus, 240 of typhoid or enteric fever, and 79 of simple continued fever. The annual death-rate from fever in the whole of England and Wales last quarter averaged 52 per 100,000 of the population, and in London it was 45. The 15 deaths from small-pox was by far the lowest number returned from this disease in any quarter of any year since the beginning of 1840; it is worthy of note that 9 of these deaths from small-pox occurred in East London, which usually suffers most severely from the disease when it is epidemic. Diseases of the respiratory organs and phthisis caused 3902 deaths in London, against 3830 in the third quarter of last year; the annual rate of mortality from these diseases was equal to 4·7 per 1000, while the rate from the same diseases was 5·8 in Liverpool and 4·8 in Birmingham. The influence of temperature and other meteorological features upon the mortality of persons at different ages from the various forms of disease in London can be investigated in detail from the information published in the Weekly Returns. This will acquire greater value when similar information is rendered available by the publication of returns from the medical officers of health who have recently been appointed for numerous urban and rural sanitary districts. It is of the first importance that these returns should be sufficiently uniform to render useful comparison possible.

The violent deaths in London last quarter were 671, against 588, 635, and 664 in the three preceding corresponding quarters; 550 were referred to different forms of accident and negligence, 72 to suicide, and 35 to murder and manslaughter, including infanticide. The deaths of 64 persons directly resulted from accidents caused by horses or vehicles in the streets, from which class of accident 860 cases of injury and maiming came under the notice of the Police within the London registration area, during the thirteen weeks ending 28th September last.

Health of Foreign Cities.

The following facts relating to Indian or Foreign Cities are derived from official returns furnished by various authorities abroad:

In Paris 10,589 deaths were recorded last quarter, giving an annual death-rate of 23·0 per 1000: during the last three weeks of the quarter 320 deaths were caused by cholera. In Brussels the births were 1510 and the deaths (excluding those of strangers, i.e. of persons not ordinarily resident within the city) 1190, the respective rates being 32·8 and 25·8. The 8627 deaths from all causes in Berlin, implying an annual death-rate of 41·8 per 1000, included 535 deaths, or 2·6 per 1000, from cholera. In Vienna the deaths (excluding those of strangers) numbered 7004 and included 2533 from cholera: the death-rate from all causes was 43·6 and from cholera 15·8. In Rome the number of persons married was 644, or at the rate of 10·6 per 1000; the number of births 1757, or at the rate of 28·8; and the number of deaths 1827, or at the rate of 30·0. In Florence there were 550 persons married, 1672 births, and 1270 deaths, giving rates of 13·2, 40·2, and 30·5 respectively. In Turin the persons married numbered 602, the births 1624, and the deaths 1276; the corresponding annual rates were 11·4, 30·7, and 24·1 per 1000. The 1604 deaths in Amsterdam implied an annual rate of 23·2, and the 602 deaths in the Hague to a rate of 26·0 per 1000. Returns received from Copenhagen show the total number of deaths in that city to have been 1286, and the equivalent annual rate 25·8.

In the thirteen weeks ending 30th September, 3671 deaths were registered in Bombay, giving a death-rate of 22·8. In Calcutta 2446 deaths, implying a rate of 21·9 annually, were returned in the thirteen weeks ending 13th September. The 3485 deaths in Madras recorded during the quarter ending 12th September showed a death-rate of 35·2, and included 635 from different forms of fever.

The returns from New York state the deaths during the quarter to have been 8954, of which 3028 were caused by diarrhœa; the annual death-rate from all causes was 35·9, of which 12·2 was due to fatal cases of diarrhœal diseases, against a rate of 4·0 per 1000 from the same diseases in London. The 4436 deaths returned in Philadelphia were equal to a rate of 23·7 per 1000 annually.

† As published by the Comptroller of Corn Returns to the Board of Trade.
‡ These are the average prices at which seaborne Newcastle, Sunderland, and Hartlepool coals are put in barge from the collier in the Thames; the difference between these prices and those charged to the consumer represents the cost of distribution and merchant's profit. These figures are derived from returns which have been supplied by Mr. Richard Mcade of the Mining Record Office.

* The Registration Counties consist of groups of entire Registration Districts; which Districts are, in general, identical with the Poor Law Unions. As the principle adopted has been to place a District or Union which extends into more than one County with the County in which either the principal town or the greater part of the population is located the limits of the Registration Counties differ more or less from the boundaries of the Counties proper.

† As enumerated at the Census in April 1871, and revised at the Census Office.

‡ The averages of Marriages and Births are given only for the Eleven Divisions and for Registration Counties.

§ See page 14, note ‡.

Note.—The Registrars alone must be considered responsible for the opinions expressed in the foot notes respecting the prevalence of epidemic diseases, also as to the statements respecting sanitary arrangements, &c. &c.

* The Sub-districts (2195 in number) are sub-divisions of Districts in which the Births and Deaths are registered by Registrars severally appointed for that purpose. The letter W denotes that the Sub-district contains within its limits a Workhouse belonging to the District or Union; w indicates that a Workhouse, Workhouse Infirmary, or an Industrial School belonging to another District or Union is included; H indicates Hospital or Infirmary; and L Lunatic Asylum.

† Alterations in the limits of some of the Registration Sub-districts have been made within the period for which the average has been formed. In these cases the deaths entered in the column headed "Average" have been proportioned to the population, and the estimated number distinguished thus ?.

‡ The numbers of Births and Deaths, as well as the details given, "Under 1 year of age" and the twelve subsequent headings, in this Table for London, are derived from the Weekly Returns made by the Registrars, and relate to 13 weeks, viz., from 29th June to 27th September 1873.

* 481 : 4.—The increase in the numbers of births and deaths is consequent upon large additions to the population. [Assuming that the birth rate for the current year would not much exceed 50 per 1000, the population of this sub-district would seem to have increased from 30,090 in 1871 to nearly 45,000.]

Remarks on the Weather during the Quarter ending September 30th, 1873.

By James Glaisher, Esq., F.R.S., &c.

Till the 19th of July the weather was mostly cold, and the mean daily temperatures were below their seasonable averages by $\frac{3}{4}^\circ$. On July 20th a sudden change took place, and for a few days the weather was fine and hot, particularly on the 21st, 22d, and 23d, the mean temperatures of these days being 71°·7, 75°·2, and 72°·3, exceeding their averages by 10°·2, 13°·7, and 10°·7 respectively. In the year 1818 the mean temperature of the 23d, 24th, 25th, and 26th of July were 72°·7, 79°·2, 70°·7, and 72°·0 respectively; a similar very warm period in July 1825 continued from the 13th to the 20th, with mean daily temperatures of 70°·6, 71°·3, 79°·1, 74°·1, 73°·9, 78°·2, 78°·6, and 70°·8. In July 1826 a warm period was experienced from the 2d to the 9th, the mean daily values were 71°·8, 71°·7, 74°·3, 73°·9, 72°·3, 73°·1, 72°·6, and 71°·3. In 1830 from July 25th to 30th the average daily temperature was 72°·3, the value for the 30th being 76°·3. In 1836 the mean temperature of July 1st to 6th was 73°·0, with a maximum daily temperature of 76°·7; in 1847 the mean from July 11th to 14th was 72°·4, and in 1859 the mean temperature of July 11th to 13th and 16th to 19th was 73°·3, with a maximum mean daily temperature of 75°·7.

Immediately following those few warm days beginning July 20th, 1873, the weather was again cold, and from July 20th to September 2d the weather was changeable, the whole period being characterised by several days of warm weather, followed by a few days of cold, and then succeeded by several warm days again; the warm days were, however, the more numerous, and upon the whole period there was an excess of temperature averaging $2\frac{1}{2}^\circ$ on the 45 days ending September 2d. From September 3d there was a fortnight of continued cold weather, and for the most part the weather was cold to the end of the quarter; the deficiency of mean temperature upon the last 28 days of the quarter somewhat exceeded an average of 2° daily.

Rain fell very frequently during the first half of July, during the whole month of August, and the first half of September; and but little fell during the second halves of July and September.

The wind during the whole quarter was nearly always West, or a compound of the West with the South; the winds from the North and East were insignificant in duration.

The average duration of the different directions of the wind in days, and the duration of each direction in each month in the quarter, are as follows:—

| Direction of Wind. | July. | | | August. | | | September. | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|

The + signs denoting excesses over averages in the months of July and August, are confined to the S., S.W. and W. winds; in September these winds also preponderated, but there are in addition some + signs to compounds of E. in this month. During each month the deficiencies of the N. and its compounds are shown by the sign − being prevalent in every month.

The mean temperature for the month of July at Greenwich was $4\frac{1}{2}^\circ$ above that in June; that in August was $\frac{3}{4}^\circ$ below that in July; and September was no less than 8° below that in August. The mean increase from all stations from June to July was 3°·8; and the mean decrease from July to August was 0°·7; and from August to September was 6°·0.

The decrease of mean temperature from August to September at Greenwich of so large an amount as 8° is rare; back to 1773 the only instances of so large a decline are as follows:

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1778 | the decrease was | 10°·1. | 1842 | the decrease was | 9°·0. |
| 1803 | „ | 9°·3. | 1856 | „ | 8°·4. |
| 1807 | „ | 10°·6. | 1863 | „ | 8°·2. |
| 1840 | „ | 8°·0. | | | |

The readings of the barometer at 159 feet above sea level were very variable throughout July, but the movements were not of very great magnitude. The highest reading in the month was 30·0 in. on the 21st, and the lowest 29·2 in. on the 13th, thus giving a range of 0·8 in. The mean daily values were below the average as a rule till the 15th, but above during the remainder of the month. Tolerably high readings were experienced from the 1st to the 17th August, but in very few cases, however, exceeding 30 in., but from the 18th to the end of the month a low wave was prevalent, the average value for the 28th being 29·4 in. The range of reading in the month was but 0·7 in. The low readings of the latter end of August continued till the 18th September; a rather large depression being recorded on the 13th, 14th, and 15th; the minimum, 29·1 in., occurring about noon on the last-mentioned day. On the 21st the readings passed above 30 in., and continued in excess of that point till the 26th, the mean excess above average daily being nearly 0·4 in. The maximum for the month was 30·36 in. on the 22d, and minimum 29·08 in. on the 15th, thus giving a range of 1·28 in.

The mean decrease of readings from all the stations from June to July was 0·021 in.; from July to August was 0·023 in., and from August to September at all stations south of latitude 53°, there was an increase of 0·034 in., and north of this parallel, there was a decrease of 0·051 in.

The mean temperature of July was 63°·4, being 1°·8 higher than the average of 102 years, lower than in 1872 by 1°·6, but higher than in 1871 by 1°·7.

The mean temperature of August was 62°·7, being 1°·9 higher than the average of 102 years, higher than in 1872 by 1°·8, lower than in 1871 by 2°·1, and higher than in 1870 and 1869.

The mean temperature of September was 54°·7, being 1°·8 lower than the average of 102 years, and lower than in any year back to 1863, when 53°·7 was recorded.

The mean high day temperatures were higher than their respective averages in July and August, but lower in September.

The mean low night temperatures were also lower than their averages in the first two months, and higher in the last.

Therefore the days and nights of July and August were warm, and those of September cold.

The daily ranges of temperature were greater than their respective averages in July, August, and September, by 1°·7, 0°·5, and 0°·6.

The fall of rain was 0·7 in. in defect in July, 0°·8 in. in excess in August, but the same as the average in September.

The mean temperature of the air in the three months ending August, constituting the three summer months, was 61°·7, being 1°·5 higher than the average of the preceding 102 years.

Barley cut, on the 27th of July at Helston.

Oats cut, on the 22d of July (near) Brighton; on the 27th at Helston; on the 28th at Strathfield Turgiss.

Swallow departed, from Stonyhurst on the 12th of September; from Silloth on the 25th.

July.

Bywell.—The weather has been very favourable for haymaking; the crop is good and well got. Potatoes and turnips have made great progress and promise well. Barley is changing colour, but wheat and oats are very backward. Small fruits (berries) are plentiful; apples will be a fair crop.

Cockermouth.—Haymaking became general about the 8th. The crops of sown (or lea) grass were exceedingly poor, not more than half the average, owing to dry weather during the spring months.

August.

Hull.—Harvest operations became pretty general about the 14th to the 18th. Turnips, &c. are looking well. There has been a few reports of the potatoe disease having made its appearance, but nothing of any importance.

Bywell.—The harvest is in full operation, but settled weather is required. The rains during the month have improved the pastures, which were getting very bare. Potatoes are plentiful and good in quality, fruit is also abundant.

Cockermouth.—The harvest became general about the middle of the month, but was much retarded by the state of the weather. The hay crop not all secured at end of month, for similar reason. Potatoes began to be affected with disease during last week of month. The early kinds (in gardens) being much affected.

September.

Hull.—The potatoe disease has become pretty general in this neighbourhood, about half the crop in some places is more or less affected. Crop good.

Bywell.—The harvest is quite finished in this neighbourhood, and all is secured in pretty good condition. Wheat is below the average, barley and oats are a good average. Field potatoes are pretty free from disease, but garden potatoes are much diseased. Turnips are a good crop; the pastures are improving.

Cockermouth.—The grain crop had not been all secured at the end of the month.

NOTE.—The Barometer Reading, BRADFORD, September 15th, 3h. p.m., 29·944 in. has been altered to 28·944 in.

GLOUCESTER.—From August 15th to September 6th no thermometric observations; values not included in quarterly mean.

BYWELL.—August. Means deduced from 14 days observations, viz., 1st to 14th. The barometric mean is 29·787 in., but the true mean for the month would be about 29·68 in., and which value has been used in forming quarterly value.

NOTTINGHAM.—The mean monthly values of barometer have been corrected by the application of −0·063 in. to reduce them to the height of 241 feet above sea level to accord with previous series. In foot note to last Quarterly Report for additively read subtractively.

QUARTERLY RETURN

OF

MARRIAGES, BIRTHS, AND DEATHS

REGISTERED IN THE DIVISIONS, COUNTIES, AND DISTRICTS OF

ENGLAND;

WITH CERTAIN DETAILED INFORMATION RELATING TO THE DEATHS IN EACH REGISTRATION SUB-DISTRICT.

By Authority of the Registrar General.

PUBLISHED BY EYRE AND SPOTTISWOODE, 9, EAST HARDING ST., FETTER LANE, E.C.

No. 100.] Marriages—July, August, September, 1873.
Births and Deaths—October, November, December, 1873. [Price 8½*d.*

General Register Office, Somerset House,
5th February 1874.

In the UNITED KINGDOM the births of 267,117 children, and the deaths of 168,252 persons of both sexes, were registered in the three months ending 31st December 1873. The natural increase of population was thus 98,865.

The registered number of persons married in the quarter ending 30th September 1873, was 121,244.

The resident population of the United Kingdom in the middle of 1873 was estimated at 32,131,488; that of England and Wales amounting to 23,356,414, of Scotland to 3,430,923, and of Ireland to 5,344,151. The corrected* death-rate of the quarter was 21·7 per 1000; the birth-rate 34·8; and the marriage-rate in the third quarter of the year was 16·0 per 1000.

The several facts concerning Scotland and Ireland are recorded in the quarterly reports of the Registrars General of those parts of the United Kingdom.

ENGLAND.

This Return comprises the BIRTHS and DEATHS registered by 2195 Registrars in all the districts of England during the quarter ending 31st December 1873; and the MARRIAGES in 13,553 churches or chapels, in 7064 registered places of worship unconnected with the Established Church, and in 626 Superintendent Registrars' Offices, in the three months ending 30th September 1873.

The summer marriages exceeded the average, and imply that the country, on the whole, was prosperous. The births in the autumn quarter that ended the year 1873, though fewer in proportion than in the previous autumn, were above the average of the season. The public health was in a favourable state, and the mortality was below the average both in town and country. The extremely severe cold week of December was accompanied by a remarkable continuance of dense fog in London, which, fatal to many, deprived it of its usual superiority over the other great cities of the kingdom. The chief zymotic diseases have been comparatively quiescent, but the public health requires watchful care, for measles, scarlet fever, and diphtheria are on the increase, and may devastate unguarded cities. The ruling prices of wheat, meat, and coals remain high.

Marriages.

In the quarter ending 30th September last, 99,316 persons were married, against 99,612 in the quarter ending 30th September 1872. The marriage-rate was 16·9 per 1000, showing a decline of ·2 from that in the corresponding season of the prosperous year 1872, though it still contrasted favourably with the rates which prevailed in the previous period of depression. The numbers in the different Registration Divisions and Counties are usually compared in these Reports with the averages taken from the numbers registered in each of them during the three previous corresponding quarters. On this comparison, Leicestershire, Oxfordshire, Durham, South Wales, the extra-metropolitan portion of Middlesex, Lincolnshire, and the North Riding of Yorkshire show the greatest proportionate increase, while the only counties in which any noticeable decrease appears are Westmorland, Huntingdonshire, Shropshire, Berkshire, Norfolk, Cornwall, and Wiltshire. Compared, however, with the marriages in the third quarter of 1872, a decline is exhibited in twenty-one counties, including Cheshire, the extra-metropolitan part of Surrey, Essex, Lancashire, Warwickshire, and Monmouthshire.

Births.

The number of births registered in the quarter ending 31st December 1873 was 205,215, or 878 less than in the corresponding quarter of the previous year. Allowing for increase of population, the birth-rate per 1000 persons living was 34·9, or ·5 lower than in the quarter ending 31st December 1872, but ·7 above the mean rate for the fourth quarter in the ten years 1863–72. A comparison of the number of births registered last quarter, with the average in the three previous corresponding quarters, for each Registration Division and County, shows that the births fell short of the respective averages in fourteen counties, the greatest proportionate deficiency being in the small counties of Huntingdon and Westmorland, and in Shropshire, Dorsetshire, and Bedfordshire. London exhibited the largest proportionate excess, then the counties of Durham, Leicester, the extra-metropolitan part of Middlesex, Monmouth, and Northumberland.

The normal birth-rates vary considerably in different parts of the country. Thus, in the year 1871 the rate in Durham was 42·4, and in Somersetshire 30·9 per 1000, and the mean rates in the ten years 1861–70 for these two counties had been 42·0 and 30·7 respectively. The principal immediate cause of this wide difference would naturally be looked for in the proportions of married women at the child-bearing ages to the total population. Accordingly it is found from the Census of 1871, that in that year in the county of Durham, with an enumerated population of 742,205, the number of females between the ages of 15 and 45 was 156,713, of whom 93,873, or about 60 per cent., were married; while in Somersetshire, with an enumerated population of 482,652, the number of females between the above-mentioned ages was 107,390, of whom 48,357, or only about 45 per cent., were married. The proportion of married women between 15 and 45 years of age to the total population was thus in Durham 13 per cent., and in Somersetshire 10 per cent. It should be remarked that the number of males to 100 females enumerated was in Durham 107 and in Somersetshire 90. The greater prevalence of early marriages in Durham is shown by the fact that 18,099, or 5 per cent., of the total females in that county, and 6434, or only 2½ per cent., of the total females in Somersetshire, were wives under 25 years of age.

In the eighteen most populous English towns the birth-rates last quarter averaged 37·0 per 1000, exceeding the rate for the whole of England and Wales by 2·1, and ranged from 32·5 in Portsmouth and 32·9 in Norwich, to 42·9 in Sheffield and 45·2 in Leicester. The average rate in the fifty next largest towns was 35·5, or 1·5 below that in the eighteen largest; of the rates in these fifty towns the lowest were 23·0 in Cheltenham, 25·8 in Plymouth, and 26·3 in Shrewsbury, and the highest were 43·0 in Wigan, 44·1 in South Shields, and 48·6 in Dudley.

Increase of Population.

The births during the quarter ending 31st December last exceeded the deaths by 76,932. During the same period 33,172* emigrants of British origin sailed from ports at which emigration officers are stationed, against 37,855 in the last quarter of 1872. Of these 33,172 emigrants, 21,621 were English, 2801 Scotch, and 8750 Irish; the proportions to a million of the respective populations of the three countries being English 926, Scotch 816, and Irish 1637. The destination of 20,042 was the United States; of 2289 British North America; of 9035 the Australian Colonies; and the remaining 1806 were bound for other places. A continued increase is observed in the number of emigrants attracted to the Australian Colonies.

* This information is obtained from a Return with which the Registrar General is favoured by the Board of Trade. The total number of emigrants was 44,507, of whom 11,335 were foreigners. In the numbers here given 1585 cases, in which the origin was undistinguished, have been distributed proportionally amongst those in which the origin was stated.

Prices, Pauperism, and the Weather.

The average price of wheat for the quarter ending Christmas 1873 was 61*s.* 1*d.* per quarter, differing very slightly from that in the previous quarter ending Michaelmas, but showing an increase of 3*s.* 10*d.* upon the average price for the Christmas quarter of 1872, and of 10*s.* upon the mean price for the corresponding three months in the ten years 1863–72. Potatoes were much cheaper than at the corresponding season of the previous year, best Regents averaging 107*s.* per ton at the Borough and Spitalfields markets last quarter, against 170*s.* in the December quarter of 1872. The mean price for the fourth quarter in the ten years 1863–72 was 99*s.* 6*d.* per ton. A further slight reduction is to be noticed in the price of meat, the average prices per lb. of beef and mutton by the carcase at the Metropolitan Meat Market, having declined from $7\frac{1}{4}d.$ and $7\frac{7}{8}d.$ respectively in the September quarter to $6\frac{3}{4}d.$ and $7\frac{1}{8}d.$ last quarter. In the quarter ending 31st December 1872 beef averaged $6\frac{3}{4}d.$, the same as last quarter, and mutton $7\frac{1}{4}d.$ per lb.; for the corresponding quarter in the ten years 1863–72 the mean prices were $5\frac{7}{8}d.$ and $6\frac{3}{8}d.$ per lb. respectively. Seaborne coal averaged 30*s.* 8*d.* per ton in the London market last quarter; it was slightly dearer than in the previous quarter, when the average price was 30*s.* 1*d.* per ton. In the corresponding periods of 1872 and 1871 the average prices were 26*s.* 5*d.* and 19*s.* 9*d.* respectively.

The usual Return showing the extent of pauperism during the quarter has not been received from the Local Government Board.

Mr. Glaisher's remarks on the meteorology of the quarter and accompanying Tables will be found on pp. 65–72.

In the first week of October there was an excess of mean temperature averaging $3\frac{1}{4}°$ daily; then followed two cold and two warm days, after which there was a cold period of more than a month's duration, in which the average daily deficiency of mean temperature was $3\frac{1}{2}°$. From 17th November to 7th December the weather was again mostly warm. A week of very severe cold weather ensued, the deficiency of temperature on the 9th, 10th, and 11th December being $11\frac{1}{2}°$, $16\frac{1}{2}°$, and $12\frac{1}{2}°$ respectively, and these days in London were distinguished by a most remarkable continuance of very dense fog. A warm period then set in, and continued with slight exception to the end of the year; on the 16th, 17th, and 18th the daily temperatures were 10°·8, 10°·0, and 10°·6 above their respective averages, and the mean temperature of these three days was 24° higher than that of the 9th, 10th, and 11th. The mean temperature of the quarter was 0°·5 above the average in 102 years. The rain-fall at Greenwich during the quarter amounted to 5·5 inches, or 1·6 inches less than the average in 58 years. The deficiency in the month of December was 1·7 inches, the total fall in that month having been only 0·3 inches, and less than in any December since 1829. Between latitudes 50° and 55° the mean amount of rain collected during the quarter was 6·82 inches, or but little more than half the amount which fell in the three months ending 31st December 1872.

State of the Public Health; Deaths.

In the last three months of 1873 there were 128,283 deaths registered. The annual death-rate was equal to 21·8 per 1000, and 0·4 lower than the average rate in the corresponding quarters of the ten years 1863–72; in those ten years the only lower rates were 20·2 in the last quarter of 1872 and 21·3 in 1867, whereas in the other years the rate ranged upwards to 23·4 and 23·5 in 1871 and 1864 respectively.

In the eleven Registration Divisions of England and Wales the annual death-rate last quarter ranged from 16·3 and 17·7 in the agricultural counties of the South-the three months 6751 deaths, or 5·3 per cent., were registered upon the information of the coroner, being inquest cases; in the two previous corresponding quarters the inquest cases were 6423 and 6500. In the eighteen large towns the percentage of inquest cases last quarter averaged 6·5 per cent., and ranged from 3·5 and 3·7 in Bradford and Hull, to 8·6 and 8·8 per cent. respectively in Birmingham and Salford. To different forms of violence no less than 4233 deaths were referred in England and Wales last quarter, of which 1616 occurred in eighteen of the largest English towns; in these towns the proportion of deaths from violence to total deaths ranged from 2·2 per cent. in Bradford to 6·4 per cent. in Liverpool.

London.—The fatal prevalence of measles and the week of severe cold accompanied by dense fog in the early part of December unfavourably affected the health of the metropolitan population during the last three months of 1873; the annual rate of mortality during the 14 weeks ending 3rd January 1874 was equal to 25·3 per 1000, against 24·1, 25·8, and 19·8 in the corresponding periods of 1870–1–2. The London rate was, however, slightly below the average rate in 17 other large English towns having an aggregate population nearly equal to that of London. The deaths referred to the seven principal diseases of the zymotic class were 3256, of which measles caused 1420, whooping-cough 605, fever 539, diarrhœa 302, scarlet fever 283, diphtheria 90, and small-pox 17. These 3256 deaths were equal to an annual rate of 3·6 per 1000, whereas in the 17 other large towns this zymotic rate was 4·4 per 1000; but for the fatal prevalence of measles this comparison would have been still more favourable to London. The fatal cases of measles in the Registration Division of London, which had been 120, 302, and 353 in the first three quarters of the year, further rose to 1420 during the last 14 weeks; the weekly numbers rose steadily from 32 in the 40th to 168 in the 51st week, and throughout November and December the disease was more fatally prevalent than it has been in London at any time since 1840. The 539 deaths referred to different forms of fever showed a further considerable increase upon the numbers returned in the two previous quarters; in the last quarters of 1871 and 1872 the deaths from fever were 548 and 318. The fatal cases of scarlet fever and diphtheria also showed an increase last quarter, whereas those of whooping-cough and small-pox differed but slightly from the numbers in the third quarter of the year.

Diseases of the respiratory organs and phthisis caused 8623 deaths in London, against 5621 in the corresponding quarter of last year; the annual rate of mortality from these diseases was equal to 9·6 per 1000, while the rate from the same diseases was 8·0 in Liverpool, and 6·8 in Birmingham. The weekly number of deaths from these diseases in London averaged rather less than 400 in the first three weeks of the quarter, whereas they rose to 1112 in the twelfth week, under the influence of the week of low temperature and fog in the early part of December.

In the public institutions of the Metropolis 3691 deaths were recorded last quarter, equal to 16·2 per cent. of the total deaths; of these, 2109, or 9·3 per cent., occurred in Workhouses, and 1457, or 6·4 per cent., in Hospitals. A considerable proportion of the deaths in the Metropolitan Hospitals occur among patients admitted to those institutions from districts situated outside the registration boundaries of London; these deaths, however, are probably more than balanced by those of domestic servants and others, who, counted as residents of the Metropolis, return to rural homes when taken ill, and whose deaths, due in some measure to the evil effects of town residence, are registered in country districts. On this account no correction is made in the death-rate for deaths in the London Hospitals of persons not inhabitants of London; in many of the returns from foreign cities, however, this correction is made by the local authorities, without the addition of the deaths of town residents which occur outside the cities, thus reducing the calculated mortality.

The violent deaths in London were 771 last quarter, of which 657 were the result of accident or negligence, 77 of suicide, and 22 of murder or manslaughter, including infanticide. The deaths of 53 persons were directly referred to accidents caused by horses or vehicles in the streets; from this class of accidents 716 cases of injury or maiming came under the notice of the Police within the London registration area during the 14 weeks ending 3rd January last.

Health of Foreign Cities.

The following facts relating to Indian or Foreign Cities are derived from official returns furnished by various authorities abroad:

In Paris the deaths during last quarter were 10,292, and were at the annual rate of 22·3 per 1000; 240 deaths were caused by cholera during October and November. In Brussels the number of persons married was 794, the births were 1549, and the deaths (excluding those of strangers, i.e., of persons not ordinarily resident within the city) 1041; giving rates of 17·2, 33·6, and 22·6 per 1000 respectively; an outbreak of typhoid fever occurred towards the end of the quarter, but the deaths from this disease have shown some decline since the expiration of the quarter. The deaths registered in Berlin were 5205, and the annual death-rate was 25·2; 179 deaths were referred to cholera, and 166 to diphtheria. In Vienna 3615 persons, exclusive of strangers, died during last quarter, and the corresponding death-rate was 22·5; the deaths from small-pox, which had been 735, 286, and 163 in the first three quarters of 1873, rose last quarter to 236; and in the last week of the year 41 deaths were registered from this disease, a higher number than in any week since March last. The deaths from cholera were 193 against 2533 in the previous quarter; they declined from 46 in the week ending 18th October, to one in the week ending 22d November, since which date only one death has been reported. The deaths from typhus showed a considerable decrease from the numbers returned during the previous quarter. In Rome 820 persons were married, 1872 children born, and 1675 persons (excluding strangers) died; the respective rates were 13·4, 30·7, and 27·5; the deaths from fever, which in the first three quarters of 1873 had been 197, 215, and 320, declined last quarter to 274, equal, however, to an annual rate of 4·5 per 1000 persons living. In Florence there were 752 persons married, 1705 births, and 1277 deaths (excluding those of strangers), giving rates of 18·1, 41·0, and 30·7 respectively; 175 deaths were referred to typhoid fever and diphtheria, showing an increase upon the numbers returned in recent quarters. The returns from Turin show the number of persons married to have been 780, of births 1689, and of deaths (excluding those of strangers) 1355, and the respective rates were 14·7, 31·9, and 25·5 per 1000; 84 deaths were referred to fever, which was slightly less prevalent than in the two previous quarters. The 1615 deaths in Amsterdam were equal to an annual rate of 23·3, and the 486 deaths in the Hague to a rate of 21·0 per 1000. Returns received from Copenhagen show a total of 1073 deaths, the equivalent annual rate being 21·5.

In the thirteen weeks ending 30th December, 3658 deaths were registered in Bombay, giving a rate of 22·7 per 1000; 1285, or 35 per cent. of the total deaths, were referred to remittent fever, the annual death-rate from this disease being equal to 8·0 per 1000. In Calcutta 3368 deaths were returned in the thirteen weeks ending 27th December, the equivalent death-rate being 30·2; the deaths referred to different forms of fever amounted to 47 per cent. of the total deaths. The 3635 deaths in Madras during the quarter ending 12th December showed a rate of 36·7; 138 deaths were referred to small-pox.

In New York 6412 deaths were reported last quarter, and the annual death-rate from all causes was equal to 25·7; no less than 458 were caused by diphtheria, against 186 and 316 in the two previous quarters; 286 deaths resulted from scarlet fever, against 204 in the preceding quarter. The 3030 deaths in Philadelphia were equal to a rate of 16·2 per 1000 annually; 117 deaths were referred to typhoid fever, against 78 and 92 in the two preceding quarters.

The Year 1873.

In the United Kingdom 1,096,296 births and 668,591 deaths were registered during the year 1873. After correction for defective registration in Ireland, the birth-rate was 35·5 and the death-rate 21·3 per 1000 persons. The excess of births over deaths, similarly corrected, was 457,979; but the increase to the population thus occasioned was partly counterbalanced by the emigration (from ports at which emigration officers are stationed) of 226,133 persons of British origin, of whom 120,869 were English, 21,564 Scotch, and 83,700 Irish. Of these 226,133 emigrants, 166,461 sailed for the United States, 28,418 for British North America, 25,164 for the Australian Colonies, and 6090 for other destinations.

In England 831,809 births and 493,993 deaths were registered. The births were 7163, and the deaths 1928 more than in 1872. The birth-rate was 35·7 and the death-rate 21·2 per 1000, these rates being respectively ·4 above and 1·4 below the mean rates for the ten years 1863–72. During the first three quarters of the year, for which alone the marriage returns are yet available, the marriage-rates were considerably above the average for the ten preceding years.

The 493,993 deaths included those of 123,811 children under one year of age, and of 126,224 persons aged 60 years and upwards; the proportion of the latter was considerably above the average.

The seven principal zymotic diseases were fatal in 68,057 cases, against 88,652 in the previous year. The mortality from these seven diseases was at the rate of 2·9 per 1000 persons living, against 4·5, 4·6, and 3·8 respectively in the three years 1870–1–2. Of these 68,057 deaths, 2332 were caused by small-pox, 7141 by measles, 12,901 by scarlet fever, 2260 by diphtheria, 9039 by whooping-cough, 13,148 by different forms of fever, and 21,236 by diarrhœa. These numbers, derived from the Registrar's Quarterly Returns, are subject to revision when the causes of death in 1873 are finally classified. The subsidence of the small-pox epidemic was the principal cause of the diminished fatality of this class of diseases; the prevalence of scarlet fever and diphtheria, however, in the last quarter of the year caused the mortality from those two diseases to be greater than in 1872. Inquests were held upon the bodies of 26,100, or 5·3 per cent., of the persons whose deaths were registered during the year; and 16,425, or 3·3 per cent., were the victims of various forms of violence, either wilful, or arising from accident or negligence.

† As published by the Comptroller of Corn Returns to the Board of Trade.
‡ These are the average prices at which seaborne Newcastle, Sunderland, and Hartlepool coals are put in barge from the collier in the Thames; the difference between these prices and those charged to the consumer represents the cost of distribution and merchant's profit. These figures are derived from returns which have been supplied by Mr. Richard Meade of the Mining Record Office.

* The Registration Counties consist of groups of entire Registration Districts; which Districts are, in general, identical with the Poor Law Unions. As the principle adopted has been to place a District or Union which extends into more than one County with the County in which either the principal town or the greater part of the population is located the limits of the Registration Counties differ more or less from the boundaries of the Counties proper.

† The averages of Marriages and Births are given only for the Eleven Divisions and for Registration Counties.

‡ See page 14, note ‡.

NOTE.—The Registrars alone must be considered responsible for the opinions expressed in the foot notes respecting the prevalence of epidem diseases, also as to the statements respecting sanitary arrangements, &c. &c.

* The Sub-districts (2195 in number) are sub-divisions of Districts in which the Births and Deaths are registered by Registrars severally appointed for that purpose. The letter W denotes that the Sub-district contains within its limits a Workhouse belonging to the District or Union; w indicates that a Workhouse, Workhouse Infirmary, or an Industrial School belonging to another District or Union is included; H indicates Hospital or Infirmary; and L Lunatic Asylum.

† Alterations in the limits of some of the Registration Sub-districts have been made within the period for which the average has been formed. In these cases the deaths entered in the column headed "Average" have been proportioned to the population, and the estimated number distinguished thus ?.

‡ The numbers of Births and Deaths, as well as the details given, "Children under 1 year of age" and the twelve subsequent headings, in this Table for London, are derived from the Weekly Returns made by the Registrars, and relate to 14 weeks, viz., from 28th September 1873 to 3rd January 1874.

* 505 : 2.—Of the deaths from scarlet fever, 74 occurred in Barnsley township and 15 in Barugh township. The epidemic was most fatal at Oldtown, an outlying part of Barnsley, and at Gawber, a hamlet in Barugh; in both these places the drainage is said to be bad.

† 505 : 3.—There has been a considerable increase to the population in consequence of several new coal mines being opened. The water supply is defective both in quantity and quality.

‡ 508 : 1.—Ten deaths (inquest cases) were caused by the falling of a chimney during the gale on 16th December.

* 564 : 2.—Of the 6 deaths from scarlet fever, 5 occurred at Dunshield in Elsdon township.
† 571 : 3.—The prevalence of fever and diarrhœa is attributed to overcrowding and to the pollution of the water supply by the discharge of the sewage from Cockermouth into the River Derwent.
‡ 574 : 1.—The 3 deaths from fever all occurred in the village of Kirkby Thore.

Remarks on the Weather during the Quarter ending December 31st, 1873.

By James Glaisher, Esq., F.R.S., &c.

Till the 7th day of October there was an excess of mean temperature of the average amount of $3\frac{1}{4}°$ daily; the 8th and 9th days were cold, and the 10th and 11th were warm, the deficiency of temperature of the first two of these four days being $7\frac{3}{4}°$, and the excess in the last two being of the same amount, viz., $7\frac{1}{4}°$. A lengthened cold period followed of more than a month's duration, extending from October 12th to November 16th, and the average daily deficiency of mean temperature was $3\frac{1}{2}°$; then from November 17th to December 7th the weather was mostly warm, and the excess of daily mean temperature was 3°·1. A week of very severe cold weather ensued, the deficiency of temperature on the 9th, 10th, and 11th being $11\frac{1}{2}°$, $16\frac{1}{2}°$, and $12\frac{1}{2}°$ respectively; and these days in London were distinguished by a most remarkable continuance of very dense fog. The fog of the 9th was darker in colour and more dense than I have ever known a fog or cloud to be before.

In the seven days ending with the 14th the average daily deficiency was $8\frac{3}{4}°$. A warm period then set in, and continued with slight exception to the end of the year; some of the days were very warm, particularly the 16th, 17th, and 18th, when the daily temperatures were 10°·8, 10°·0, and 10°·6 in excess over their respective averages. The mean temperature of these three days was 24° higher than that of the three days a week before, viz., the 9th, 10th, and 11th. The mean excess of daily temperature above their averages for the last 17 days of the year was as large as $4\frac{1}{2}°$.

The mean temperature for the month of October at Greenwich was 6°·9 below that of September; that of November was 3°·6 below that of October; and that of December was 3°·6 below that of November. The mean decrease from all stations from September to October was 6°·4; and from October to November was 3°·6. In December at several northern stations it was warmer, by from 1° to 2° than in November, whilst it was colder at all southern stations to the amount of 3° or 4°.

The readings of the barometer at 159 feet above the sea level were very variable during the early part of October, but the movements were not of any great magnitude, and the departures on either side of the average of the mean daily values rarely exceeded one or two tenths of an inch. On the 19th readings slightly exceeding 30 in. were registered, but on this day a fall set in, and continued during the 20th, 21st, and 22d, reaching its minimum (about 28·8 in.) about noon on the 23d. On the 29th, 30·1 in. was recorded, but by the 1st November the reading had decreased to 29·0 in. The range of reading during October amounted to 1·56 in.

A general increase was experienced till the 17th November, the mean readings for the 16th and 17th being half an inch in excess of the average, but during the remainder of the month several waves of high and low values occurred, a general tendency, however, being shown to decrease. On the 1st December the readings passed above 30 in., and till the 14th continued with but very few exceptions in excess of 30·3 in., and for some days even in excess of 30·4 in. The departures of the mean daily values for this period above the average were as follows: 1st, 0·59 in.; 2d, 0·62 in.; 3d, 0·68 in.; 4th, 0·66 in.; 5th, 0·48 in.; 6th, 0·54 in.; 7th, 0·64 in.; 8th, 0·66 in.; 9th, 0·62 in.; 10th, 0·61 in.; 11th, 0·66 in.; 12th, 0·67 in.; 13th, 0·64 in.; and 14th, 0·46 in. From the 15th onwards many oscillations occurred, but with very few exceptions the readings remained above 29·6 in. The range of reading during December amounted to 1·07 in.

The mean decrease of readings of the barometer from all stations from September to October was 0·112 in.; from October to November there was a decrease at southern stations, and an increase at northern; from November to December there was an increase everywhere, to the average amount of 0·355 in.

Rain fell almost daily in October from the 7th to the 13th and from the 19th to the 24th; and in November to the 10th day, and occasionally after the 18th. In December till the middle of the month there was no rain, and only a few slight showers fell subsequently, the total fall in the month being only 0·3 inch, and less than in any December back to 1829, when it was 0·1 inch; this is the only instance back to 1815 of a smaller fall than in the present December. The fall of rain over the whole country in these three months was but little more than one half of the fall in the same months in the year 1872.

The average duration of the different directions of the wind referred to eight points of the compass, and the duration of each direction in each month in the quarter, were as follows:—

| Direction of Wind. | October. | | | November. | | | December. | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Average. | 1873. | Departure from Average. | Average. | 1873. | Departure from Average. | Average. | 1873. | Departure from Average. |

| W. | $4\frac{1}{2}$ | 5 | $+\frac{1}{2}$ | 2 | 4 | +2 | 4 | 10 | +6 |
| Calm, nearly. | $3\frac{3}{4}$ | 0 | $-3\frac{3}{4}$ | $3\frac{1}{2}$ | 0 | $-3\frac{1}{2}$ | 4 | 1 | −3 |

The + signs, denoting excesses over averages, are confined in October to N.E., S.W., and W.; in November to N.E., E., and W.; and in December to S.W. and W. The prevalence of − signs attached to the numbers opposite the compounds of the N. and E. winds indicates the general deficiency of those winds below their averages in October, and especially in the month of December.

The mean temperature of October was 47°·8, being 1°·8 lower than the average of 102 years, the same as the corresponding value in 1872, but lower than in 1871 by 1°·6.

The mean temperature of November was 44°·2, being 1°·9 higher than the average of the preceding 102 years, lower than in 1872 by 1°·1, but higher than in 1871 by 6°·6.

The mean temperature of December was 40°·6, being 1°·5 higher than the average of the preceding 102 years, lower than in 1871 by 2°·3, but higher than in 1871 by 2°·3, in 1870 by 7°·0, and in 1869 by 2°·7 respectively.

The mean high day temperatures were higher than their respective averages in November and December, but lower in October.

The mean low night temperatures were lower than their respective averages in October and December, but higher in November.

Therefore the days and nights of October were cold, and those of November warm, while the days of December were warm and the nights cold.

The daily ranges of temperature were greater than their respective averages in October and December by 1°·6 and 1°·1 respectively, but less in November by 0°·4.

The fall of rain was 0·2 in. and 1·7 in. in defect in October and December respectively, but 0°·3 in. in excess in November.

NOTE.—The Barometer Reading, Holkham, 27th November, 3h. p.m., 30·432 in. has been altered to 29·432 in. Helston, 28th November, 3h. p.m., 29·200 in. has been altered to 30·200 in. Strathfield Turgiss, 6th December, 3h. p.m., 29·352 in. has been altered to 30·352 in. Portsmouth, 13th December, 3h. p.m., 29·654 in. has been altered to 30·654 in. Cockermouth, 24th December, 9h. a.m., 30·083 in. has been altered to 30·083 in. Allenheads, 31st December, 3h. p.m., 29·008 in. has been altered to 28·008 in.

Nottingham.—The mean monthly values of barometer have been corrected by the application of −0·063 in. to reduce them to the height of 241 feet above sea level to accord with previous series.
Taunton.—October. The mean reading of the minimum on grass is deduced from observations to the 22d. Thermometer then broken.
Gloucester.—October. Dry and wet bulb thermometer sent away for verification. In November the mean of dry and wet thermometers are deduced from the 8th onwards. (Many of the minimum radiation thermometer are higher than the minimum in air.)
Bradford.—October. Means deduced from 27 days observations. In November from 23 days observations.
Allenheads.— „ „ 27 „ „ 26 „
Wisbech.—The Wet bulb thermometer readings in each month are mostly higher than the Dry, and therefore cannot be used.
St. John's College, Battersea.—The readings of the wet bulb thermometer are apparently too high.
